SPENT $300,000 FOR MAN SHE LOVES

I know I have lost my money, social standing and all for him, but I don't care; I would sell my soul for him.

It's a big task to try to get Bowler out of jail, the bail is so high. It was my intention to raise $50,000.

I have spent $300,000 since I met Bowler. But I am not sorry.

—Mrs. Edith Stevens Reynolds, who is working to free the spendthrift.

2 WOMEN FIGHT TO SAVE ACCUSED BOSTON FORGER

Wife of George Pendleton Bowler Willing to Aid Woman Who Took Him from Her in Effort to Secure His Release from Jail.

"I love my husband so much that, while I don't want to see him with Mrs. Reynolds, I hope she will be able to bail him out of jail. I know that they will go away together as soon as he is free. But I am willing to make even this sacrifice for him."

Unmindful of her own suffering, thinking only of the man she loves dearly, Mrs. Helen L. Bowler, wife of George Pendleton Bowler, the Harvard plunger, in an exclusive interview to-day given to the BOSTON AMERICAN, made this remarkable declaration.

Mrs. Edith Reynolds, although she has spent more than $200,000 during her friendship for the Harvard spendthrift, proposes to raise $50,000, if that much is necessary, to set him at liberty. She asserted that she would sell her soul for Bowler.

Mrs. Bowler told her story for the BOSTON AMERICAN as she sat in her cosey little home, No. 207 Hemenway street, Back Bay.

By Mrs. Helen L. Bowler

"Why do I hope and pray that Mrs. Reynolds may secure bail for my husband? Well, because I love him. He is my husband, and I love him as I did when I became his wife. I have the hope that some day his soul will awaken—that he will tire of the follies that he pursues now, and that then he will come back to little Muriel and me.

"I don't know why I believe so, but I feel it; it fills my thoughts night and day. I went to the jail when I learned that he was in trouble. He did not send for me or ask me to go. I went because I love him.

HOPE FILLS WIFE'S LONELY LIFE

"I don't want to see Mrs. Reynolds, but I hope she will be able to get him bail. I know they will go away together as soon as he gets out, and he may not even come here to see our Muriel. His heart is now hers. But I have been and am comforted by my hope. Some day he will come back.

"I feel averse to talking about the case or my family affairs. The newspapers have told it over and over again. No, I will not talk of Mrs. Reynolds. She stole away my husband and broke up my home, but he may have been more foolish and headstrong than she. He was away from me long before she took him. I bear her no malice. Time will avenge her. So I hope she will secure bail for my husband. I would be glad to see him out, no matter who helped him to get out.

"If I had the money or could raise it I'd lay it all at his feet and open those cell doors. When he went away he took all the money I had and almost all my jewelry. What was left of the jewelry, $700 worth, I sold since.

"George is hopeful and self-reliant, and that is why pretty faces, music, opera and the whirl of the world attracts him. He is young, will return, and he'll then come back again to little Muriel and to me.

"It is true that he had so much money and that it was not tied as it is now when we were first married. Now he can't ever come into possession of the principal. We might have been so happy but for this money."

"Made Money Himself."

"I did not know much about his business except to know that he made considerable money himself in the life insurance business and that he had plenty of money. He furnished everything on us, little Muriel and myself, until the crash came. After he left us he sent me $50 each week for a year or

BRYAN IN HUB; MEETS MAYORS AT LUNCHEON

Nebraskan Addresses City Executives at Young's Hotel; Then to Fall River.

William J. Bryan is again in Boston.

Smiling and looking the picture of health as he stepped from the Pittsfield train at the South Station at 11:20 to-day, he responded to the cheers of a good-sized crowd and shook hands with many.

George Fred Williams, Colonel A. C. Brickwater of Braintree and Chairman John F. Feeney of the Democratic State Committee were on hand to greet the three presidential candidate as he stepped from the train. Among the first he greeted was Miss Helen Victoria Brinkwater. He was driven at once to the American House, where he met some of the local Democratic leaders.

Addresses Mayors' Club.

The Mayors' Club of Massachusetts is lunching at Young's this afternoon and Mr. Bryan delivers an address there. Later in the afternoon he goes to Fall River to deliver an address before the Fall River branch of the New England Progressive Democratic League. He remains there for the night and returns early Tuesday to be entertained at the Algonquin Club by Governor Guild. Officers of the local camps of the Spanish War Veterans meet Colonel Bryan.

Speaks at Harvard.

In the afternoon he delivers an address at the Harvard Symposium and speaks again in the coging at Lowell.

On the trip from Pittsfield Mr. Bryan was met by Rev. Mr. Spiler, a former Nebraska preacher, and now stationed at Worcester.

Douglas at Luncheon.

George Fred Williams sent an invitation to former Governor William L. Douglas to come in from Brockton and meet Mr. Bryan at the American House after the Mayors' Club luncheon. This the former Governor has agreed to do.

Wednesday morning Mr. Bryan leaves Lowell for a brief Vermont tour. Friday he goes to New Hampshire. He is expected to speak in Maine Monday and Tuesday, returning to Boston on his way to New York and the West, May 1.

FACTORY IS DESTROYED.

TROY, N. Y., April 22.—Powers's oil factory was destroyed by fire to-day. There was no insurance. The fire is believed to be incendiary.

Peace Advocate and Harvard Union Clash

STEAD IN NEW CONFLICT

British Editor Puts Foot Down to Smash Time-Honored Custom of College Club.

William T. Stead, the distinguished author and editor of London, who is in this country talking peace, and is to address the members of Harvard Union to-night, is in another conflict.

Mr. Stead, shortly after he came here and was asked to address the Harvard Union, caused it to be spread abroad that he never addressed any assemblages where women were refused admittance.

Time immemorial it has been the custom, now become unwritten law, in Harvard Union that women are not admitted to their meetings.

"To Abide by Rules," Union Head.

John T. White, president of Harvard Union, said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

"I have just been talking with Mr. William T. Stead over the telephone, and I asked him to dine with me to-night at the Union. Mr. Stead gratefully consented to be my guest, and this evening he will dine with me at the Union."

"How about Mr. Stead's address before the members of Harvard Union tonight? Are women to be admitted?" the reporter asked.

"Of course, you know the rules of the Union. We will abide by them," was the rejoinder of Mr. White.

Editor Stead, to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, to-day said:

"Yes, women will be present at Harvard Union to-night. Mrs. Stead, my wife, Mrs. Mosei H. Gulesian, my hostess, and Mrs. James, wife of Professor William James, will be there. They will sit in the balcony and the boys will smoke as usual."

Plan for Universal Peace.

In the Park Street Church yesterday afternoon, Mr. Stead addressed a great audience, to which he detailed his plan for universal peace. He closed with an urgent appeal for the support of the American people.

"I want you to do something practical," he said. "Ask yourselves whether it is the duty of Christians to cut each other's throats and act like brutes and savages."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Rev. Dr. Henson of Tremont Temple presided, and the peace movement and its history was briefly outlined by Secretary Trueblood of the American Peace Society and by Edwin D. Mead and Dr. Conrad.

Word Christian Cloaks Selfishness.

Mr. Stead secured instant attention by quoting from a letter he had written from Holloway jail twenty-two years ago to a young girl who had been reclaimed from a life of evil, in which he urged her to "never tell any one any more to be a Christian, but always say to be a Christ instead." In explanation he said that the word "Christian" had come to be in innumerable cases a mere label to cover a great mass of selfishness, while the character of the Christ could not be misinterpreted.

He continued:

"If opportunity is not given to look at the questions of national and international importance from the other fellow's side, then our Christianity is not worth much in practical politics. Peace work has been too much left in the hands of a few men of inexperience. It should be taken hold of by the governments with all their resources."

CLEVELAND FLYER SAVED FROM WRECK

CLEVELAND, O., April 22.—A Pennsylvania trackwalker found a broken rail on the outskirts of Cleveland late last night and ran a mile to the Independence road signal station to stop the Cleveland & Pittsburg flyer.

It is reported that the rail was dynamited by train wreckers. Superintendent T. B. Hamilton of the Cleveland division, however, is of the opinion that the break was an accident.

BLAME PILOT; KILLED IN LARCHMONT HORROR

RESPONSIBILITY FOR WRECK THAT COST 161 LIVES LAID ON PAUL ANSON IN REPORT.

Special to the Boston American.

NEW LONDON, Ct., April 22.—Pilot John Anson, of the Joy Line steamer Larchmont, sunk in collision with the schooner Harry P. Knowlton, in which 161 lives were lost, is held responsible for the accident in the report forwarded to Supervising Steamboat Inspector Ira A. Harris at Boston to-day. The investigating inspectors hold that Anson was guilty of unskillful navigation. The pilot lost his life.

Concluding their long statement the inspectors say:

"Misfortune, the worst we hope that may befall him, came to George W. McVay, master of Steamer Larchmont, in large measure. While we cannot commend or mention with approbation the judgment displayed by him in his efforts to save the lives of his passengers and crew, evidence is wanting insofar as to warrant our charging him with incompetence or misconduct."

FLEE IN PANIC FROM VOLCANO IN ERUPTION

VALPARAISO, Chile, April 22.—The panic in Southern Chile caused by the eruption of the Puyehua volcano is growing more hourly. The volcano is in full eruption, and residents of the neighborhood, who fear the whole region is to be devastated by the lava flow, are fleeing in terror for their lives. Several earthquake shocks have been felt as far northward as Santiago and have added to the terror of the people.

Forest fires which were started several days ago by the hot ashes and cinders from the volcano are still burning. Thousands of acres have been burned over. Hundreds of cattle have been destroyed and many farms burned.

FOLLOWS HUSBAND SHE LOVED TO GRAVE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 22. The romance of County Commissioner John Lindley, who died a year ago, and his beautiful young wife, formerly Rose Lea, ended today with her suicide. She was found dead in her home, dressed in her richest gown and a rubber tube in her mouth through which she had inhaled gas.

THE WEATHER.

Fair to-night. Tuesday generally cloudy, followed by showers in the afternoon or night. Light variable winds.

High tide—6:18 a. m., 6:52 p. m.

Sun rises—4:53; sets, 6:33.

Moon sets—2:13 a. m.

BIG STEAMER ON THE ROCKS

TOKIO, April 22.—In trying to avoid a collision to-day the steamer Mongolia of the Pacific Mail line ran aground near Hayeda lighthouse, Province of Nagato. There are numerous reefs in the locality, on one of which the Mongolia spitted herself keeping out of the way of a sailing vessel. The steamer is close to land and within easy reach of assistance, so that no danger threatens the passengers.

The Mongolia is of 13,350 tons and was built in New York for the Pacific trade in 1904.

FLOATING FORTRESS IN STRIKE

Steamship Sent Here to B Used by Breakers, it Is Said.

TOWED INTO PORT TO-DAY

The big freight and passenger steamship Zealandia, owned by New York parties, was towed into Boston harbor early to-day and is to be used hereafter as the headquarters of the strike-breakers who are here taking the places of the striking teamsters.

The strike-breakers, it is expected, will be put aboard the big steamer to-night and towed out into the middle of the harbor, where there will be no chances for desertion by the men, nor annoyances from without.

Fully equipped for housing hundreds of passengers, if need be, the Zealandia, 380 feet long, a new and modern boat in every respect, is now at Pier No. 14, Boston Wharf Company's docks, South Boston.

Keep Movements Secret.

Here she is in charge of a custom officer and representatives of the master teamsters. The greatest mystery has surrounded the movements of the vessel and prying visitors are not welcome aboard.

Louis R. Lamphear, the strike-breaker of New York, who last week was arrested in Sleeper street for flourishing a revolver while he was talking to a crowd of men, and who was fined by Judge Joseph D. Fallon of the South Boston District Court and [illegible] over from the Charles street jail to Judge Fallon's court and released. Lamphear thought better of fighting the case out in a higher court, and he told Judge Fallon that he wanted to withdraw his appeal. It is said that Captain Bradley paid the fine. Lamphear went at once to strike-breakers' headquarters in Albany street.

The strikers to-day feel more assured of victory in the end than ever before. They feel that they made substantial progress last week, and yesterday, as a consequence, there was an enthusiastic spirit that meant much when the members of Team Drivers' Local No. 25 voted to levy $1 a week upon each working member, or $4,700 in all, each week to support the 360 men affected by the strike.

Raps Lucius Tuttle.

International President Cornelius P. Shea and International Secretary-Treasurer Thomas L. Hughes of Chicago told the men in their mass meeting yesterday that they would undoubtedly win the strike.

In a circular sent out by Harrison Loring, Jr., head of the Brine Transportation & Moving Company, President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine Railroad is charged with prolonging the strike by giving aid to the strikers in refusing to help raise funds for the master teamsters.

Fifield, Richardson & Co. to-day sent out 18 men and 9 teams; Hilliard & Sons, 17 men and 9 teams; Johnson & Co., 17 men and 8 teams; Boston Forwarding and Transportation Company, 15 men and 7 teams; Flanders & Co., 24 men and 12 teams; Presby & Co., 9 men and 3 teams.

Bloom, a strike-breaker at Fort Bradley, to-day reported to Sergeant Walkin at Station 6 that he had been kicked out of the strike-breaker's headquarters because he complained of being dissatisfied. He wanted protection to go to the barracks for his clothes and money. The police did not give him much encouragement.

No General Strike Ordered.

No general strike is to be ordered yet. The strikers have been assured that District Assembly No. 30, Knights of Labor, original, which has control of the railroad terminal freight handlers, will give them any moral or financial aid they may need.

BREAD, BUTTER BETTER THAN BEEF, OYSTERS

—DR. F. W. WHITE.

Startling comparisons illustrating the comparative nourishing properties of different foods are made by Dr. Franklin W. White in a lecture which he has delivered before the students in the Harvard Medical School. Some of them follow:

Slice of bread and butter equals in nourishment:

Three good slices of beef.
Twenty cups of beef tea made from beef extract.
Half a glass of milk.
One and one-half eggs.
Small plate of baked beans.
Sixteen oysters.
Eleven cups of home-made beef tea.

Artificial Foods Worthless.

One pound of beef equals one-sixth of a pound of butter in nourishment.

Good oleomargarine is better than poor butter.

Cabbages or potatoes are more than eighty per cent. water.

Tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers contain practically no nourishment.

Cereals, beans, nuts, cheese are at least four-fifths solid nourishment.

Fish, when dear, is very expensive; there is so much waste.

Codfish at eight cents a pound is worth as much as halibut at thirty cents.

Artificial foods in the forms of tablets are worthless.

Fat foods contain twice as much energy giving properties as other kinds of food.

Common fruit does not contain much nourishment.

The banana is less nourishing than the orange.

Bars the Mushroom.

Potatoes and carrots are not readily absorbed by the body, forty per cent. of the carrot being waste.

Cabbage is not easily digested and much of it is waste.

The mushroom is not fit for food. It is indigestible.

For twenty-five cents the most nourishment can be got from the following foods in the order named: Cereal, beans, potatoes, rice milk, butter, fish and meat.

Dr. White is to deliver his concluding lecture on this subject next Sunday afternoon.

SHOOTS AMMONIA GUN IN DOCTOR'S EYES

NEW YORK, April 22.—Almost blinded from the fumes of an ammonia gun which had been turned on him by a burglar he early to-day, Dr. Charles H. B. Camac chased the intruder for many blocks and finally saw him landed in jail.

SANFORD'S GINGER NOG.
Milk, egg, sugar, Sanford's Ginger. Very nourishing for weak folks.—Advt.

HERE ARE KIDNAPPED MARVIN BOY AND HIS "DOUBLE."

"Chubby" Marvin as he appeared shortly before he was stolen from his father's farm in Delaware.

"Unknown baby," held by Gloversville, N. Y., police, who may be shield to cloak plans of kidnapping gang.

BELIEVE BOY BLIND TO HIDE KIDNAPPING BAND

Police Declare Baby Held at Gloversville, N. Y., Used to Further Plans of Marvin Child Abductors.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., April 22.—Although Myles Standish, uncle of the late kidnapped Marvin boy, has declared that the boy held here for several days by the authorities is not the son of Dr. Horace N. Marvin of Bower's Beach, Del., for whom the police of the country have been searching for months, the authorities believe the boy is either kidnapped or is being used to further some plan of the real kidnappers of the Marvin boy and their suspicions are further strengthened by the fact that the Allen woman, in whose charge he was, has eluded the police of Gloversville and slipped quietly away with the boy, who so much resembles little Horace.

The man, Alex. N. Allen, in whose company she was, is being held in close custody in the belief that both he and the woman are members of an organized band of kidnappers and the detectives hope to get a clue to the whereabouts of the Marvin boy through him.

Although it was the intention of Chief Smith of the local force to have his men keep the woman under surveillance, she managed to escape their watch easily and had been gone four hours before the chief learned of her absence. Then she was traced as far as Schenectady, to which place she took the boy on a trolley car. It is believed she is on her way to Mechanicsville, where she admits she has a relative, a man who has long been under suspicion of knowing something about the Marvin kidnapping.

Made to Resemble Marvin Boy.

After his examination of the boy, who was in charge of the Allen couple, Myles Standish said that the little fellow had been made to resemble Horace Marvin as much as possible, but there are many points of difference between them. He does not believe, however, that the Gloversville boy belongs to the couple who brought him here.

The boy's face is elongated, while that of the Marvin boy was round. The latter had a scar over his right eye from a cut, while the boy here has a scar over his right eye from a burn. The boy has hair several shades darker than Horace Marvin's and the latter's teeth were regular and in fine condition, while the boy here has irregular and poor teeth. The Marvin boy was not ticklish, while the boy here is extremely so.

After seeing the child Mr. Standish telegraphed to Dr. Marvin:

"Child held is not Horace. Suspicious circumstances surrounding his identity convince me these are parties Murphy trailed. Murphy should be sent here to watch them closely. They know much more than has been disclosed, and are evidently members of organized band. Write me your conclusions."

Couple Contradict Themselves.

Chief of Police George R. Smith was impressed by the contradictory statements made by Alex N. Allen and the woman with him. They were put through a searching cross-examination. Allen denied many things he told the police Saturday. He said that he married the woman six years ago in Washington, but could not remember the name of the minister. When a similar question was asked the woman she said that they had been married in a small town in Virginia. According to a bartender, Edward Hughes, Allen told him that the woman with him was not his wife, and the child was one they had adopted.

Allen, when he was arrested, said to Police Captain Colson: "It is all up. The unexpected always happens. I suppose I am arrested in connection with the Marvin kidnapping case."

Hold Man for Board Bill.

Chief Smith wired to Catskill for information concerning Allen. W. H. Bates, chief of police of that town, telegraphed back to hold Allen; that he was wanted for jumping a hotel bill some time ago. As the boy in his possession was not the Marvin child the police could not hold him on that charge, but he was locked up to await the arrival of a detective from Catskill, who will return with him to that town.

Deputy Constable Murphy of Dover, Del., traced a man and a woman with a child from a point on the Jersey shore opposite the Marvin farm to Hoboken, thence north to Mechanicsville, where it was said the missing child was last seen with a family of whom the Allen woman is said to be a member. That the child was not the boy found here is evident from the fact that it has since been proved that this child was in Catskill at the time.

AUTO EXPLODES, RUINED BY FIRE

An automobile exploded and was almost totally destroyed by fire at Commonwealth avenue and Allston street, Brighton, early to-day. The machine was a Stanley runabout carrying the registry number 18,323. The records of the highway commission show that this number was assigned five weeks ago to William P. Sweeney of No. 9 Union street, Somerville.

TWO WOMEN FIGHT TO FREE BOWLER

more, and then he tried to cut it down.

"I am a Boston girl. My maiden name was Helen Carr, and I met my husband, whose home is in Cincinnati, here in Boston when he was attending Harvard."

A pretty baby girl lay sleeping beneath the rich covers of a large bed, finished in gold. "Poor child!" murmured the mother. "She is such a joy!

"Perhaps, after all, in her bright eyes lies the reason for my willingness to forgive my husband and forget the past. I would make any sacrifice in the wide world for Muriel.

TELLS HER GREAT LOVE FOR BOWLER

With cheeks aglow, Mrs. Reynolds, who is staying at the Hotel Bellevue, told of her great love for George Pendleton Bowler.

"This is all very trying for me," she began, "and yet I'd do anything to get George out of that jail. I'd sell my soul for him!" she said, leaning forward and clasping her hands.

"He is just a dear. He is a darling. I can't help loving him," she cried in almost childish ecstasy.

"Why, shouldn't you think I loved a man—the man that I had given almost all the money I had and let him spend it as he would, and then, when there is little left of it, I am willing to see him through his trouble to the very last? Shouldn't you say that I love him?

"I know I have lost my money, social standing and all for him, but I don't care.

"Will I be reconciled to my husband and live with him after to-night? No, because I love my darling—my darling George

SORRY FOR MRS. BOWLER.

"Now, I am sorry to see Mrs. Bowler and her little girl's name brought into this affair, but she wasn't living with her husband when I met him and no reconciliation between them was possible.

"I want a divorce from my husband and Mr. Bowler wants one from his wife. Then only will we both be happy, but anyway I want to be near him.

"It's all true. I went away with Mr. Bowler.

"He had left his wife—three years before—and I was married, too.

"It was at a dinner party I gave. He was there and we went to New York.

"Now he's in jail, and I'm going to stay here till I get him out."

"But how about Mr. Reynolds? Isn't he here with you now?"

"Oh, yes. We came here Friday.

"I'm twenty-three years old—yes, I am, even if I don't look it. If I were thirty-three I would tell you just the same.

"Seriously, now, Mr. Schoen is here as my attorney and to get Mr. Bowler out of jail. Just as soon as he does the next steps will be taken.

HOPES TO RAISE $50,000.

"I was Miss Stevens when I married Mr. Reynolds, and I had a lot of money—$300,000 about. My father is dead now and my mother is in a sanitarium on the Hudson. So she doesn't know anything about it.

"We lived on Commonwealth avenue—no, I won't tell you where. It wouldn't do you any good if I did. And I'm not sorry a bit that I did what I did.

"Honest, now, I'd do it all over again."

"Our affairs are in a terrible condition," she said, "and I have so much work ahead of me to straighten them out I don't know where to begin. Do I think I can get Bowler out of jail? Oh, I don't know. It's a big task, the bail is so high. When I came down here it was my intention to raise $50,000, but I am terribly embarrassed myself, and I feel that the unpleasant notoriety that has been brought upon him and me will handicap me in getting the money. Oh, yes, I have jewels—a few. I used to have many more than I have now."

WILL SELL SECURITIES.

Attorney Schoen of New York, counsel for Mrs. Reynolds, is to-day trying to realize on a number of securities in order to raise the sum needed to enable Bowler to dispense with the hospitality of the Charles Street Jail officials. Whether the attorney will be successful or not cannot be foretold. Mrs. Reynolds has ultimate faith in the New Yorker, and she declares that she knows of a number of wealthy Bostonians who will come to her aid if the securities her attorney has are not sufficient.

"I'll free Bowler to-day," said Mrs. Bowler confidently.

Mrs. Bowler in a separate maintenance suit, brought in 1905, against her husband, testified that when Bowler abandoned her he took $8,000 worth of jewelry that had been given her. The court granted the suit and Bowler was ordered to pay $35 a week for the support of his wife and daughter, Muriel M. Bowler, who is about seven years old.

Notwithstanding Mrs. Reynolds's activity in behalf of Bowler, her husband has rejoined her and is at the Bellevue with her. Mr. Reynolds is a quiet, unassuming man who is decidedly adverse to the notoriety which has come upon his wife.

'SOAP KING' FATHER OF MRS. REYNOLDS

Mrs. Reynold's father, one time millionaire, president of the Warren Soap Company of No. 77 Summer street and member of many military and social clubs, and because of his resemblance to the present King Edward of England locally famous as "the Prince," was at the time of his death in 1904, one of the best known men in Boston. He passed very little time with his invalid wife or daughter at their homes at No. 34 Mount Vernon street or on Park avenue, Arlington Heights, but could be seen, when not at his office, at the various clubs or hotels.

He dropped dead in Clark's Hotel the night of December 6, 1904, while talking with a number of friends in the lobby.

Those who knew him best say that he worried much over the escapades of his daughter before and after her marriage to Reynolds.

Spent Fortune on Daughter.

Mr. Stevens spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on the present Mrs. Reynolds. He sent her to Europe a dozen times, furnished her with horses and coachmen and in the Back Bay it was said that she had more money to spend than any girl of her age in Boston.

Mr. Stevens was prominently identified with the Ancient and Honorable Artillery and at his funeral the eulogy was delivered by Colonel Henry Walker, then head of that organization.

Mr. Stevens was also a Mason, a member of the Megantis Fish and Game Club, with members of which he always passed a portion of every year in the fishing and hunting regions of Maine and New Brunswick. He was a member of the Algonquin Club, the Point Shirley Club and the Boston Athletic Association.

He was born in Maine in April, 1852, of the oldest Puritan stock, being descended from Colonel John Phipps, who was Governor of New England in 1690.

He came to Boston early in life and for many years before his death was the president of the Warren Soap Company and practically dictator of the affairs of most of the soap concerns of New England.

Mr. Stevens was very liberal with his wealth and at the time of his death his fortune had shrunk, his friends say, from millions to a few hundred thousands.

His handsome Arlington estate is said to have passed into the hands of his daughter a short time after he died.

ROBERTS' FATE NOW IN HANDS OF MAINE JURY

Special to the Boston American.

HOULTON, Me., April 22.—The fate of John E. Roberts, charged with the murder of Edgar Dickinson at Smyrna Mills six months ago, is in the hands of the jury. Some time to-day they will return a verdict which will decide whether Roberts shall spend the rest of his life at Thomaston Prison or be set free.

Judge Spear charged the jury. He pointed out strongly that such evidence as was introduced against Mrs. Annie Dickinson, who was indicted jointly with Roberts and whose case was nol prossed, should not in any way be considered as against Roberts.

Confident of Acquittal.

While the charge was being given to the jury, Roberts gazed stolidly at Judge Spear, chewing tobacco constantly. He cast a hurried glance at the jury as they filed out of the courtroom. He was nervous, but his guards say that he came to the courtroom confident that he would be acquitted.

Sunday passed the same as other days for the prisoner. In an interview at the Houlton jail yesterday Roberts expressed confidence that the twelve men who were to pass upon the evidence that has been presented during the past week would return a verdict of "Not guilty," and told of his plans for going to the woods, where his camps are, and fishing and hunting and later on trapping for furs.

But few realize what it would mean to this "man of the woods" to serve a life sentence at Thomaston.

Jury Unable to Go to Church.

To those who follow the life of the cities it would seem hard enough; but to this man, who spends the greater part of his life in the open air in the deep woods, who fears neither man nor beast, who goes through the trackless woods with the same ease as one goes up and down the streets in his native city, to such a man as this confinement means a different thing. It means an entirely new life, with none of the natural surroundings and associations that for forty years he has been used to.

The members of the jury, all known as men of sterling integrity, had hoped to be able to attend church yesterday, but the Judge decided that for the interests of all concerned it would be better to forego the privilege for once.

During the forenoon they took their usual walk, which was extended an hour, and when they returned they were all in good spirits. During the afternoon they were taken for a drive on a buckboard holding the entire jury and also the deputy sheriff who had them in charge.

PLAN WORLD'S BIGGEST LABOR TEMPLE IN HUB

If the plans adopted at the meeting of the Central Labor Union yesterday are carried out, Boston will have a labor temple that will be probably the greatest institution of its kind in the country if not in the world. The idea as advocated by the projectors is to have one large building wherein all the various trades organizations may have their headquarters and hold their meetings.

The plan is now being considered by a committee which is headed by Frank H. McCarthy of Cigarmakers' Union 97, formerly president of the Central Labor Union. Other members of the committee are:

John E. Potts of Carpenters' Union No. 33, John C. McDonald of Elevator Constructors' Union, Edward F. Ward of Brewery Workers' Union, Hon. Frank J. Linehan of Bricklayers' Union No. 3, James J. Kenney of Musicians' Union, Thomas M. Nolan of Typographical Union No. 13, P. J. Flanagan of Stationary Firemen's Union No. 3, Martin T. Joyce of Electrical Workers Union No. 103, Martin J. Mattimoe of Bartenders' Union No. 77, Albert E. Pike of Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union No. 4, Edward J. Byrnes of Team Drivers' Union No. 191, Nathan S. Sodekson of Newsboys' Union, Miss Lida McFeaters of Hat Trimmers' Union and the members of the executive board of the central body.

After passing resolutions condemning a naval and military display as the closing features of Old Home Week, these officers were elected:

President, Arthur M. Huddell; vice-president, Patrick aMloney; financial secretary-treasurer, Philip H. Sweet; secretary, Henry Abrahams; reading clerk, G. Harry Dunderdale; sergeant-at-arms, John J. Fenton; trustees, J. E. Eaton, J. F. Kennedy and George F. Tagen; auditors, Miss Anna T. Bowen, Patrick D. Daley and D. D. Driscoll.

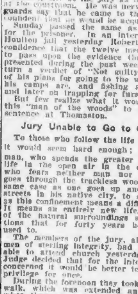

EXPECT ROYAL HEIR OF SPAIN THIS WEEK

MADRID, April 22.—Professor Gutierrez, chief of the medical attendants of Queen Victoria, expects the arrival of the heir to the Spanish throne before the week is over. All Spain is anxiously awaiting the word from the palace to know "whether it is a boy." The Queen sticks to her declaration that she will nurse the child herself, despite the overturning of all Spanish precedent.

Refrigerator Wise —Ice Foolish

Our version of "penny wise, pound foolish": you buy a refrigerator once, you buy ice every day. It's foolish economy to save a little on the cost of your refrigerator and give it all and much more to the ice man.

The saving on your ice bill will pay for one of these refrigerators. Our refrigerators are built on sanitary principles insuring a constant circulation of dry cold air with a minimum ice consumption. Linings are rust and mould proof, no open joints to catch dust and all parts can be removed for cleaning.

The Secret Out
How Advertising Has Made
Minard's Liniment a Wonderful Seller

The secret as to how the people are induced to buy a proprietary medicine and how they are educated to have faith in it for really serious ills, how the testimonials telling of remarkable cures are obtained, and the use made of these testimonials ought to be a secret no longer, and this article showing how advertising has made Minard's Liniment the best selling liniment on the market will make it clear to all readers. It is an undisputed fact that advertising is responsible for the widespread use of this preparation. In no other way could its proprietors have placed it before millions of people and created in their minds a desire to use it for their physical well-being. Some one uses it and finds it beneficial, he writes a letter of gratitude, and the letter is printed in millions of newspapers—and next morning all up and down the land people read about how so and so was helped by this remedy, and when the evidence accumulates and accumulates, others decide that they will try Minard's Liniment. This is

How Physical Director Conroy's Testimonial Was Obtained

Professor John F. Conroy is Physical Director of the Boston Municipal Gymnasium, the Roxbury Latin School, holds a Congressional medal for saving lives, and is a noted swimmer. He has used Minard's Liniment and writes the following letter: "Minard's Liniment Mfg. Co., South Framingham, Mass. Gentlemen: I take great pleasure in indorsing your liniment. I have used it with very satisfactory results and wish to recommend it to all swimmers and athletes as an excellent tonic for sore and tired muscles. Athletes who use Minard's Liniment never know or feel the strain of excessive muscular exertion. Very truly yours, Prof. John F. Conroy, So. Boston, April 5, 1907."

Then again, Minard's Liniment is frequently advertised by the recommendation of those who use it. Because she obtained speedy relief from a sample bottle is

How This Estimable Lady Came to Write a Remarkable Testimonial

We print the letter in full: "I have just received a most generous sample of Minard's Liniment, for which I thank you very much. As soon as I received it I applied some to my ankles. I have great trouble with them, dull pains at times so bad I cannot sleep. In a few moments after one application the pain eased and I felt so quiet and rested. The back of my neck feels very bad, just as though the blood was clogged and could not circulate. I also gave my neck a treatment with the Liniment and shortly I felt a warm, tingling sensation. It's wonderful. I am much pleased with it and shall use no other Liniment. It is so clean and pleasant to handle. I am very anxious to have my father try your Liniment. He has lame back and rheumatism, and has used many kinds of Liniment, yet none of them do him much good. I also have a sister who has rheumatism so bad she cannot walk and is sick in bed from it. I would so like her to try a sample of your Liniment. I feel sure they can be cured if they use your wonderful Liniment. If you will please send a sample to their addresses, which I enclose, I will be very grateful. Thanking you for your trouble and kindness, I am, yours truly, Miss Susie A. Tripp, Box 178, Onset, Mass., April 9, 1907."

Thus we see that advertising has many forms. For instance, if you, reader, speak to a friend about this article that will be advertising of Minard's Liniment; or were you to use it yourself and finding it beneficial, tell others, that is another form of advertising; and as a matter of fact, in no other way has there been more effective advertising of this preparation than by the word of mouth recommendation of

Steamship Officers On Three Boston Lines Threaten Big Strike

TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES MUST ANSWER WAGE INCREASE ULTIMATUM BY MAY 1.

Unless they receive a substantial increase in wages, the officers of three Boston steamship lines, the Clyde, the Metropolitan and the Merchants & Miners' Transportation Company, each of which operates half a dozen or more vessels from this port, will strike on May 1. In New York City, where the centre of the controversy exists, the officers on all coastwise steamship lines are involved.

The trouble between the steamship officers and the companies involves the first, second and third officers. A petition was addressed to the managers of each steamship line, asking that the men be given $100, $80 and $60 per month for first, second and third officers respectively, which is an increase of from $10 to $20 in most instances. The demands have been ignored.

The Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company, to forestall a strike, is said to be prepared to secure an emergency corps of officers on short notice. Other steamship lines are following its example.

Steamship Officers Underpaid.

Says a Boston steamship officer:

"Steamship officers are underpaid; everybody admits that, and I do not think the companies will object to increasing the wages when the matter is properly put to them. Navigating officers get from $40 to $65 per month, which is very small pay for a man with a profession. Navigation is a most difficult study, and a navigating officer has vast responsibilities. It is ridiculous to compare the pay of these men with the responsibilities which they carry upon their shoulders."

The attitude likely to be taken by the marine insurance companies has been spoken of. It is said to be extremely doubtful if the companies will stand passively by and see such a contest waged when they stand to lose tremendously by such a fight. In New York the underwriters have already came forward with suggestions of arbitration and a peaceful solution of the trouble is hoped for.

Boston Steamer Officers.

Among the steamers and officers in Boston liable to be effected are the following:

Metropolitan Line—Steamer H. F. Dimock; Frank Peterson, first officer; B. T. Atkins, second officer. Steamer H. M. Whitney; Hall Colbert, first officer. Steamer James S. Whitney; Joseph Baker, first officer; Frank Steele, second officer. Steamer Herman Winter; Horace Crowell, first officer.

Clide Line—Steamer Moghican; Frank McKinnon, first officer; D. S. Kindell, second officer. Steamer Chippewa; George Chapman, second officer. Steamers Apache Huron, Algonquin and Katahdin.

Merchants' and Miners, Transportation Company—Steamers Juniata, Nantucket, Gloucester, Dorchester, Howard and Kershaw.

STEEL KINGS TO SEE COREY WED ACTRESS

Miss Gilman Has Her Trousseau All Packed for Shipment. To Sail on French Line.

Special to the Boston American.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Miss Mabelle Gilman, the light opera song bird, sails for New York this week on one of the swift transatlantic steamers plying between Cherbourg and this port, and W. Ellis Corey, the president of the United Steel Corporation, will be here to welcome her.

Almost frantic efforts are now being made to get the mansion of Mrs. James B. Martin, No. 303 Fifth avenue, which Mr. Corey has leased, so the legal paper reads, "by and for the occupancy of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Corey," in readiness for the now-celebrated actress and singer, who is to become the steel magnate's wife on May 7.

Miss Gilman is ready to sail now, for her sumptuous wedding trousseau, every stitch of it Paris made, is prepared and boxed ready for shipment to the United States.

Invites Steel Directors.

That the wedding will not be the strictly private and simple affair which was at first planned and allowed to be announced is now certain. Mr. Corey expects to be re-elected president of the great steel corporation at the annual meeting of the board of directors on Tuesday, and he has sent invitations to many of his associates in the steel business and to several of the directors of the concern of which he is the executive head.

James O. Harley, a cousin of Miss Gilman, has made the positive announcement that the wedding is to take place on May 7, and the terms by which Mr. Corey was able to lease the splendid Martin mansion establish the certainty of the truth of this, for he was compelled to insert in the lease the stipulation that he was not going to occupy the residence as a single man.

The Martin mansion is in Fifth avenue, between Sixty-first and Sixty-second streets. On one side of it is the home of Mrs. Elmer Roosevelt and on the other that of Mrs. Marshall Allen.

Will Do Much Entertaining.

This, coupled with the great work of refurnishing the mansion, indicates that Mr. Corey and his actress-bride expect to gain access to New York's most exclusive social circles and to do a great deal of entertaining.

The wedding ceremony is to take place in the sumptuous home which Mr. Corey has leased for the occupancy of his bride-to-be. Miss Gilman, according to the plans, is to be in New York in plenty of time to take full charge of the final details of the event.

It is said that almost immediately after the wedding Mr. Corey and his bride are to return for a honeymoon in Europe and that they are to be abroad until August 1 at least. When they return to this country they propose to make their permanent home in this city.

ACTRESS SAILS TO WED COREY.

Mabelle Gilman, light opera songbird, this week boards swift transatlantic steamship at Cherbourg, to wed Steel King, who is to meet her at the pier in New York.

MILLIONAIRE GIMBEL DIES IN HOSPITAL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 22.—With his wife at his bedside, Benedict Gimbel, the Philadelphia millionaire who attempted to commit suicide after having been arrested on Fifth avenue, Friday, died early to-day at St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken.

The end came after a desperate fight to save the man's life. One of the most pathetic incidents of the tragic case came to light just a few hours before the millionaire's death. His brother Charles, also a millionaire, who was at the bedside, offered to have one of his veins opened and fresh blood from it transfused into Benedict's body. This plan was seriously considered by the physicians, who said that if the dying man showed any signs of rallying they would resort to the heroic transfusion method. But they did not have an opportunity to try it.

The loss of blood from the wounds in the throat which Gimbel inflicted with the fragments of a water pitcher in the Palace Hotel in Hoboken on the day of his arrest was so great that there never was much hope of saving the man's life.

DEATH TAKES GIRL WHO WAS TO WED TO-DAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 22.—With the man she expected to marry in June standing beside her bed, Elaine Hamilton Lawson, a direct descendant of Alexander Hamilton, died after a two days' illness at the home of her step-father, P. T. Wall, 122 West Fifty-eighth street.

To-day at noon the preacher who was to have performed the wedding ceremony next June will read the burial service over the body of the girl.

Miss Lawson was just twenty-two years old. For more than a year she had been engaged to Arthur Emmons of Emmons Brothers, hat manufacturers of Boston and New York. They had looked forward for months to their wedding and had even planned their future home in Haverhill, Mass.

Three days ago she became ill. Appendicitis developed and her condition became so critical that her fiance was summoned but in spite of all the doctors could do, the young woman died shortly after the man she was to marry arrived.

To-day the burial will be in Kensico Cemetery.

Miss Lawson's brother is in Death's Valley, more than a hundred miles from a railroad station, and will not know of his sister's death for a week or more.

CONDEMNED BEVERLY SHOP

LAWRENCE, April 22.—Iron Molders' Union No. 83 of Lawrence has adopted resolutions declaring its sympathy with and support of the Iron Molders of North America in their effort to unionize iron workers.

The union also condemns manufacturers of machinery who substitute poorly paid non-union labor in their works for capable, reliable and fairly paid union labor, and makes reference to the United Shoe Machinery Company plant at Beverly.

Copies of the resolutions will be sent to members of the Legislature representing Lawrence districts.

TO COMPLETE WALSH ROADS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—John Scullin, multi-millionaire, builder of railroads stockholder in steam and electric lines and banks, said to-day that the dispatch from Chicago announcing that St. Louis capitalists, with financiers of New York and Chicago, had arranged to provide funds to complete the construction of the railroad known as the Walsh roads, is true.

The plan is said to be for a St. Louis, New York and Chicago syndicate to subscribe with Mr. Walsh $20,000,000 to complete the Chicago Southern and the Southern Indiana Railroads.

MELLEN BONDS STRIKE A FROST

LONDON, April 22.—A dispatch to the London Times from Paris says:

"The New York, New Haven & Hartford 4 per cent. bonds are not a success.

"It is doubtful if the underwriting syndicate will take more than half the amount of the loan which it bought. The balance, which is being held under option, may not be taken at all."

SAYS ADDICKS OWES FOR ROOM

NEW YORK, April 22.—Mrs. Henrietta Fisher of No. 1,042 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, N. J., in whose house J. Edward Addicks of Delaware occupied a room at irregular intervals from Christmas to last Thursday, says that Mr. Addicks went away owing her and other people nearly $100.

BANK HEAD GOT ACCUSED CLERK

NEW YORK, April 22.—Organizing the staff of his bank into a detective force, with himself as the directing head, Oakleigh Thorne, president of the Trust Company of America, secured yesterday the arrest of W. I. Douglass, an employe, on a charge of stealing gilt-edged railroad bonds valued at $50,000 from the trust company.

In a signed confession, Douglass declared he had, in the last few weeks, taken $250,000, instead of $50,000, and that he had lost a large part of it in stock speculation and on races. Mr. Thorne denied this.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND HUSBAND

Mrs. Abram Seltzer of No. 24 Barton street reported to the police to-day that her husband has been missing since April 12, and that she fears that harm has come to him.

The last time his wife saw him was at 8 o'clock on the evening of April 12, when he left his house, saying that he was going to a theatre. She has since found that the day after he left he drew $300 from a bank.

Seltzer left his wife and four children at his home. The oldest of the children is nine and the youngest one year old.

Until a few days before he disappeared Seltzer worked for a baker at No. 7 Parkman street.

Rebellion.

When a nation rises in its wrath to throw off the shackles of a government that has become odious the standard of defiance is unfurled and the alarm sounded for attack. The rebellious spirit of ailments arising from the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood, is speedily broken with Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound. Last year, in 13,500,000 instances, the rebellious attacks of disease were frustrated by taking this famous remedy. It is a purifier of the blood and a stimulator of the nerve system. It accepts no compromise, but overthrows the enemy completely, and in no instance extending a pardon to the vanquished foe. By removing the cause of the malady it performs a radical cure. Thirty days' treatment 25c. All druggists.

PRINCE TO VISIT HUB IN WARSHIP

STOCKHOLM, April 22.—Prince Wilhelm, aged thirty-two, grandson of the King of Sweden, in command of the Swedish cruiser Fylgia, will visit the Jamestown exposition during July and go to New York, Boston and other American ports.

CAMBRIDGE RELIEF HOSPITAL TO MOVE

The Cambridge Relief Hospital, on Prospect street, will remove in a few weeks to the old Stevens schoolhouse on Harvard street, if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the city, in order to secure more room. The proposed quarters will allow for fifty or sixty beds.

FIND JOHN L.'S OLD MANAGER SUICIDE IN BAY

Peter J. Kennedy Made Good His Death Threat to Wife in Letter of Despair.

NEW YORK, April 22.—In the finding of the body of Peter J. Kennedy, former manager of John L. Sullivan and recently manager of "Mizpah," in which his wife played the leading woman's part under the name of Beatrice Norman, the threat of suicide he made one night last January in a letter to his wife that he would kill himself has been made good. Financial losses are given as the reason. The body was found here yesterday in the Erie Basin. It had been in the water for three months.

Kennedy and his wife were living at their Summer residence, No. 153 Bay Thirty-second street, Bensonhurst, when he disappeared.

Find Body in Erie Basin.

After his disappearance his wife joined the detectives who sought him. She declared that she had absolute proof that he had not committed suicide, but had gone away for reasons which she knew. She even wrote him a letter through the newspapers which ran:

My Dear Husband: If you see this, won't you relieve my anxiety? Think of Teddy, our little boy. BESS.

From that time until yesterday private detectives had been searching for the manager.

Yesterday a big propeller, churning up the water of the Erie Basin, brought the body to the surface. Sailors towed it to the foot of Van Brunt street. The face was almost unrecognizable, but in the gray vest and trousers the police found a Masonic ring of Mecca Temple No. 468, and a Mason's identification card with Kennedy's name engraved upon it.

Wife Ill from Anxiety.

Later Mrs. Kennedy, who was summoned from Bay Ridge, where she was visiting friends, made identification even more positive.

In the months that she has been searching for her husband she has changed so greatly that scarcely any of the audiences who saw her in "Mizpah" would recognize either her face or form. From the day of his disappearance she had expected that her husband would return, and the shock she received at the sight of his body yesterday left her seriously ill.

ENDS LIFE ON SECOND TRY

Edbert E. Carter, fifty-two years old, for twenty-five years proprietor of a fish market at No. 432 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, committed suicide by gas poisoning to-day. He was dead when found by Richard Barry, an employe.

This was Carter's second attempt to end his life because of despondency over sickness. He resided at No. 64½ Thorndike street. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

ROOSEVELT DENOUNCED BY NEW BEDFORD UNION

Demands President Retract Condemnation of Miners Moyer and Haywood.

Special to the Boston American.

NEW BEDFORD, April 22.—Demanding that President Roosevelt shall not only retract his statement that he considers as "undesirable citizens" Moyer and Haywood, the officials of the Western Federation of Miners, who have been awiting trial for a year on the charge that they were concerned in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg of Idaho, but shall make amends for the injury he has done, the Central Labor Union of this city has forwarded a copy of resolutions recently passed to the White House to-day.

These are the resolutions:

"Whereas, Charles Moyer, William Haywood and George Pettibone, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, held in prison for more than a year on the charge of complicity in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg of Idaho, said prisoners having been kidnapped by the State authorities, the power which should have guaranteed them the privilege of habeas corpus proceedings and all their constitutional rights; and Imperilled Fair Trial.

"Whereas, The President of the United States has seen fit to denounce and condemn these untried men as 'undesirable citizens,' men whom Justice McKenna of the Supreme Court has said have been criminally kidnapped; and

"Whereas, This action by President Roosevelt has imperilled the chance of a fair trial of Messrs. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, citizens of New Bedford, in mass meeting assembled, denounce the unfair and inhuman treatment of our fellow-workmen by the authorities of the States of Colorado and Idaho; and be it further

"Resolved, That we consider the act of President Roosevelt as not only beneath the dignity of his high office, but also an act that cannot be too strongly denounced by all citizens who believe in the "square deal" which is so ardently advocated by the President; and be it further

Demand Retraction.

"Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the imprisoned men and pledge them our moral and financial support.

"Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to President Roosevelt and demand that he retract the statement wherein he calls Messrs. Moyer and Haywood 'undesirable citizens,' and that he do all in his power to make amends for the injury he has done."

At the meeting where the resolutions were passed Hartley Spencer, president of the Typographical Union, presided.

E. GERRY BROWN CALLS PRESIDENT'S ACT COWARDLY

BROCKTON, April 22.—E. Gerry Brown, Independence League candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts last Fall, in speaking at yesterday's mass meeting here in protest against the conviction of Moyer, Hayward and Pettibone of Idaho for alleged murder of Ex-Governor Steuenburg, commented on President Roosevelt's letter in which he declared Moyer, Hayward, Pettibone and Eugene V. Debs "undesirable citizens." He said: "Ten charges up San Juan Hill would not wipe out the stigma of cowardice that this reflection upon the officials of the Western Federation of Miners discloses. Any one who disagrees with him is either an undesirable citizen or a liar."

ROCKEFELLER PASTOR TO BE AN AMERICAN

Dr. Aked Declares He Will Become Naturalized as Soon as Possible.

NEW YORK, April 22.—There was considerable discussion to-day over the first sermon of the Rev. Dr. Charles Frederick Aked, as pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil multi-millionaire was not present. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., occupied their usual places, and after the services the younger Mr. Rockefeller stated that his father was not well and could not leave Lakewood.

The eloquent young English clergyman told an AMERICAN reporter that he had come to America to stay and that as soon as he was able, he purposed to become a citizen of the United States.

Taking "A Ministry of Reconciliation" as his subject, Dr. Aked startled his wealthy hearers by saying, with great force and evident personal application:

"Can you reconcile your business with God? Was yesterday's deal in harmony with His mind? Will your books stand a Heavenly audit? Will you reconcile your business methods with God? A ministry which does not force these questions home is sawdust and chaff."

The church was decorated with white flowers. The auditorium was filled to overflowing. Dr. Aked made a forceful impression as a pulpit orator. He has the gift of personal charm. His articulation is of the rapid-fire variety.

At the end of the service he was warmly congratulated by many members of his new congregation.

Dr. Aked said in part:

"To-day I enter upon my ministry to your great church, and, if it be the will of God, upon a larger ministry in the city and in the nation. Henceforth I occupy a pulpit consecrated by the genius of Dr. Armitage and the lofty devotion of those who are still leaders of the church on earth. I have come in the honest belief that the best work of my life is to be done in your land.

"I have come in the hope of discharging a ministry of reconciliation. I conceive that a ministry of reconciliation must embrace the reconciliation of Christians with one another. The Saviour's prayer stands: 'That they all may be one,' but it stands as a mockery. That prayer does not demand for its fulfilment uniformity of worship, identity of creed, nor a single organization. But it does demand one spirit, and that the spirit of brotherhood. I can not join a narrow church. I belong to the Church of All Good Men and Good Women."

"Federation, in this land of vast federation, ought to be possible. This ministry demands the reconciliation of the old truths with the new knowledge.

The Wilful Girl Better Remain at Her Mother's Side

By Beatrice Fairfax

DOES the wilful girl who is carrying things with a high hand, bringing trouble and mortification upon the rest of the family, ever think of her duty to her mother and sisters?

I don't believe she realizes quite how selfish she is. She probably reasons that her conduct hurts no one but herself, but in that she is much mistaken.

No matter how wild and disobedient she is, no matter how far she strays from the right path, her mother's love remains the same, and her mother's heart aches over the erring daughter.

She does not think that her behavior affects her sisters in any way, but it does. It shames them before the friends, it brings a dark blot on their young lives which can never be wiped out.

It is so easy for a girl to start on the downward way. She thinks home dull, she chafes against its restrictions. Her mother and father she looks upon as old fogies who don't understand modern ideas of liberty.

Mistaken Ideas

SHE gets into the habit of going about with girls and women older than herself, whose lives do not bear close inspection. She thinks this is seeing life at its best.

She complains that her people do not understand her. In her vain, foolish little heart she imagines that she is made of finer stuff than the rest of the family.

In reality she is not half as fine as her sisters, who are working hard to support themselves and are daily growing into noble, self-respecting young women.

Occasionally the parents of such a girl, realizing that she is growing beyond their control, will endeavor to put her under restraint.

Very often this brings the wilful young woman to her senses, but in some cases it merely brings forth wailings and self pity and profuse promises of good behavior in the future.

The wise mother will not bring her home until she proves by her good behavior that she really means to do better in the future.

If the girl could only look ahead a few years she would not hesitate for one moment which path to choose.

Make the Choice

ON the one hand is obedience to her mother's advice and training, the respect of all who know her, and a happy home and the love of some good man in the future.

On the other, her own wilful way and a lonely, dishonored old age.

She loses all that is best in life for the sake of having her own way and what she calls a good time.

The right kind of man, the man who makes a happy home for the woman he loves and respects, will not seek the girl who has lost dignity, modesty and self-respect.

Men want gentle, refined women for their wives and the mothers of their children.

Added to all this, no girl has the right to bring sorrow and disgrace upon the mother who brought her into the world.

Though she may have six children who grow up to do her honor and glory, the mother will grieve forever over the one stray lamb.

And there is bound to come an hour when the erring one would give everything in the world for the sound and tender mother voice and the forgiveness from the ever ready mother heart. But sometimes it is too late.

Stay by your mothers, dear little girls, just as long as you can. What you look on as prudery and fogeyism is the prudence of mother love.

The day will come when you yourselves will be fluttering anxiously over the home nests, hoping, praying, believing all things possible and beautiful for your birdlings.

Expert Advice on Health and Beauty

By the Professor

RED BLOTCHES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please give me some simple remedy for enlarged pores and blackheads, as well as red blotches left by pimples? Is cucumber juice good for clearing the complexion?

CLARA A.

TO make a solution for enlarged pores take one dram of boric acid and four ounces of distilled witch hazel. Apply with absorbent cotton or a piece of old linen, dabbing the pores with the lotion, not rubbing them. Cucumber juice is excellent to clear and whiten the skin. Bathe the red blotches several times a day with hot olive oil, which will cause the redness to disappear by increasing the circulation. If you will bathe the face in cold water to which a few drops of benzine have been added every time after treating for blackheads or applying cream, the pores will be closed and less likely to accumulate foreign matter. For manner of treating blackheads see answer to A. W.

HAIR RETAINS CURL

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Please tell me of something to use on my hair that will make it stay in curl.

ALICE G.

TAKE one tablespoon of bruised quince seeds, boil gently in a pint of distilled water until reduced to one-half its volume. Strain through cloth and add one and one-half ounces each of alcohol and cologne. Wet the hair with this fluid and put it up in patent curlers until dry and you will have pretty and lasting curls.

A QUICK DESSERT

CRUSH some strawberries slightly and sweeten them well with confectioners' sugar. Pile in the centre of a dessert or salad dish and surround it with sliced bananas. Whip cream until quite stiff; sweeten and flavor with vanilla and pile, pyramid style, on top of the strawberries. This makes a delicious dessert and has the advantage of being quickly prepared.

CURRANT CUP CAKES

CREAM one-half cup of butter and add gradually one cup of sugar, two eggs and the yolk of one egg (well beaten). Then add one-half a cup of milk, two cups of flour, mixed and sifted with three teaspoons of baking powder. Mix thoroughly and add one cup of currants mixed with one tablespoon of flour. Bake in individual cake tins in a moderate oven from fifteen to twenty minutes. This recipe will make one dozen cheap and delicious cup cakes.

The Boston American Pattern

A MODISH BLOUSE WAIST

No. 5,707—An attractive design for a blouse waist is here shown in a dainty development of white peau de soie and all-over lace. The mode is generally very becoming and practical as well, as it may be in either high or low neck, and the pattern provides for long or three-quarter length sleeves. The front and back is laid in fine tucks, but if preferred gathers may dispose of the fulness, either style being very pretty. Small silk-covered buttons are a feature of this season's trimmings and add greatly to the smartness of the mode. Taffeta, henrietta, challis, veiling and pongee are all available for the design. For 36-inch bust measure three yards of 27-inch material will be required.

No. 5,707—Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents and the size, name and address to the BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 230, Boston, Mass., allowing one week for delivery.

FIVE SMART INEXPENSIVE HATS

That May Help to Solve the Eternal Feminine Question of Keeping Step with the March of Coming Fashions at Reasonable Expense

HERE are five of the newest late Spring and Summer hats, showing the pick of the most popular models. They are selected by a leading designer as representing the very cream of the season's new creations.

And, best of all, none of the hats are expensive beyond the reach of the ordinary pocketbook. They are of sensible design, and this will appeal to the host of women who have had experience with the chic little Paris creations that look well enough on a stand at the milliner's but have little practical value for every-day wear.

Figure I. shows a soft, fine black mushroom crinoline, which has a ruching of the new net, black ribbon velvet and pink roses, the same pink being seen in the straw lining to the brim.

Figure III. is a green crinoline, the velvet ribbon being a darker shade of the same color, while forget-me-nots and grass surround the crown.

Figure IV. is a Tagal straw in the new viola blue, the color showing very lovely lights and shades in the large velvet bow at the back, while loose-petalled large violas and small feathery ferns complete the trimming.

Very distinctive with its sloping effect is the marguerite, grass and forget-me-not trimmed small hat shown in Figure V. It is of white straw and has twists and bows of Sax blue ribbon.

"THE BRACEBRIDGE DIAMONDS"

CHAPTER CI.—Continued

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

"YOU are of the revolutionary party," he said quietly.

She looked at him fixedly for a moment.

"Ah, you have guessed it," she said. "Yes, I am. That is one of the reasons for the vendetta between my husband and myself. He won my consent to our marriage by pretending to sympathize with our cause; he joined the secret band of which I was a member, and it was because I coveted his aid for the country I loved that I married him. He is cunning and of powerful intellect, as you know. I knew what power he could wield in our cause, and so I gave my life into his keeping.

"A Hideous Mistake"

"Our marriage was a hideous mistake from the beginning. Never were a couple more ill-mated. I had never loved him. Soon I began to hate him. I discovered that his devotion to the cause was only a pretext to get from me the document and the diamond. That he was a Russian spy, and one of the closest to the Czar and most demoniacal in the use of his power, I have but lately learned. Curiously enough, that knowledge has come to me through you, Mr. Bracebridge."

"Through me; how?" asked Frank, puzzled.

"You remember a document which you gave to a waiter upon his request?"

"Yes," said Bracebridge, very much excited.

"That waiter was my half-brother," returned the Baroness, "and the document proved to us what few had suspected, that my husband was the Czar's most powerful spy. It established his identity as Nemo, the mysterious spy, most hated by the revolutionary party.

"That document is now in the hands of our council in America, and now it is not I but Carl Slavinsky that must beware. His life is not worth the cigar butt you threw away as I stepped in here. The man must leave this country, and leave it quickly, to save himself."

"All the more reason why we must act quickly," said Frank. "Your mother has probably told you the legend of the diamond mine of the Andes and the curse pronounced upon each male member of the family?"

"Oh, yes," returned Mme. Slavinsky.

"Your husband is the descendant of the Mueller who tried to rob our great-grandfather Bracebridge, and who, when disarmed and left there by our ancestor, swore vengeance on him and his family."

"Ah-h," breathed Vera Slavinsky. "I understand many things now."

A Warning

"Mueller knows the legend," resumed Frank. "He knows that the mine can only be reached from above. He is in possession of an airship, of Reginald's child, of one of the diamonds and a fourth of the map which he stole from my father in a manner of which I will tell you at another time.

"If he is the formidable spy you say he is he will know that his life is in danger and that he must flee the country at once. Being desperate and probably short of funds, as his purse was dropped in his flight when he stole the airship, he may make one mad attempt to secure the diamonds and the portions of the map without which he cannot hope to find even the opening in the Andes that leads to them.

"He does not know that you have intrusted your portions of the document or the diamond to me, and he may attempt your life to obtain them. I entreat you, Baroness, to be very careful."

"I shall not forget," she said. "Until tomorrow, then." Her hand was in Frank's, he lifted it to his lips and an instant later she was gone.

CHAPTER CII.

A Surprise

AT 11:30 the next day Frank entered the front door of the jewelry establishment.

"I am a little ahead of time," he said, "but I thought it better to come early before this young woman arrives. It occurs to me, too, that I might slip into an adjoining room and wait until the proper moment comes for bringing me upon the scene."

"A capital idea," said the manager, approvingly. "There you are—just the thing," and he pointed to a door a few paces away. "I will leave that ajar, so that you can overhear our conversation. At the right moment I will tap the bell here on my desk, and you will understand."

Suddenly the manager said:

"Why there she is already, ahead of time," and as he pointed Frank looked through the plate glass partition into the store, and there in very deed stood the much-bedecked Suzanne.

Frank slipped at once into the adjoining room, and, leaving the door sufficiently ajar, stood behind it awaiting developments. The next moment he heard the manager say:

"Kindly take a seat, madam. And now as to the necklace you were good enough to leave with me yesterday. What valuation do you put upon it? In other words, and bluntly, what do you want for it?"

"Fifteen thousand dollars," was the reply, in very broken English.

"Well, yes, it is not an unreasonable sum, but may I ask you, madam, what you paid for this originally?"

"I paid nothing," she replied. "It was given to me by a gentleman."

"Would you object to mentioning the gentleman's name?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

SHOULD HAVE CALLED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About a year ago I met a young lady. I used to visit her once every week until two months ago her mother died, so I stopped going to her house. Sometimes I meet her on the street and I act to her as a gentleman. She will not notice me. Kindly advise me what to do, as I love her very much.

WORRIED.

SHE probably feels that you were not very sympathetic after her mother's death. With a note explaining matters, tell her you did not feel that she would care to see you when she was in trouble, but that you are very anxious to be friends and would like to call if you may. I think you will be able to renew the friendship.

IN HER CHURCH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I want you to settle a question between me and my sweetheart, as I told her I would leave it to you. I am a young man twenty-three and going with a young lady twenty-one. I love her and she loves me, and I have been engaged to her for over a year. But there is a difference in religion. Which is proper, to marry in her church or in mine, or do you think we would live happy together? As the wedding is soon coming off, I would like your opinion before making preparations. As we want to get [illegible] in same church we would like you to answer as soon as possible.

LOVE LORN.

IT is customary to have the ceremony performed in the bride's church. I see no reason why you should not be perfectly happy.

NO REMUNERATION

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

In what department in Washington shall I send a play to get a copyright, and about how much pay will I receive?

O. R. C.

WRITE to Thorvald Solberg, registrar of copyrights, at the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., and he will give you the desired information. Ask him to send you blanks for copyrighting dramatic compositions. I do not think you will receive any remuneration—on the contrary, you may have to pay something yourself.

MEANS LITTLE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-five years of age and work in one of the Boston banks. We have a very pretty stenographer in our office, whom I like very much. A few days ago she told me that she had dreamed of me the night before, and as I am very much interested in this young lady would like to know if you think this is an indication that she has some regard for me.

F. J. C.

HER dreaming about you does not argue any great amount of interest in you, but the fact that she told you about it shows her to be at least friendly. The quickest way to find out what she thinks of you is by showing her some attention.

Woman and the Temperature

WOMAN is like a flower and needs gentle warmth and congenial surroundings to bring out her best points. Man, like the oak, may be hardened and tempered by the cold winds of adversity—though not all men can stand this very severe test; but undoubtedly warmth, physical and sentimental, is wanted to allow the fair sex to blossom forth in all its delicate beauties of mind, body and spirit.

Is Extravagance the Worst Aggravation of Married Life?

By Dorothy Dix

WHAT is the most aggravating thing in married life?

Is it extravagance?

A regiment of men who have spent their entire married lives with their noses on the grindstone will respond that the bargain counter habit in a wife is worse than the dope habit, or the drink habit, or even the habit of falling in love with other men.

"Don't tell me about the woes of the man who is afraid of his wife's temper or tongue or indiscretions," says a man who has spent the cycle of his matrimonial years in toiling for dry goods merchants and milliners, "don't tell me about the small, childish griefs of the man who has had the trifling misfortune to get tied up with a shrew or a reformer. He doesn't know what real tribulation is. Just wait until he tackles the government job of trying to support a woman who thinks that money grows on trees and it's her mission in life to blow as much of it in as possible.

Purse Leaks Always

"That's me. I'm married to a woman who is good-looking, and clever, and amiable, and agreeable, but she's got holes in her hand bag and leaks in her purse, and money goes through her hands like a circus dog through a paper hoop. As a spender she's a wonder, fast as she can get rid of it, and she wouldn't want more than one year to put the national treasury on the bum.

"The advertisements in the Sunday papers affect her the same way that water does a dog with the rabies. They throw her into fits of extravagance that she can't help, poor thing, and she could no more get by a sign of anything marked down from one dollar to ninety-nine cents than a drunkard could get by a saloon where they were dispensing cut rate drinks.

"'Of course I know that you don't really need this shirt,' she would say, producing a lot of year-before-last atrocities, 'for you've got a four-years' supply on hand already, and they are not exactly your size, but the clerk said they used to be two dollars and fifty cents, and he let me have them at two dollars and thirty-seven cents, so I just snapped up the lot of them.'

Another Bit of Junk

"Or maybe when I come home at night I stumble over a boy in the hall with an imitation Japanese vase. 'Great Jehoshaphat,' I cry, 'you surely haven't added another piece of junk to our collection of horrors! There isn't a place in the house now where you can walk without skinning your shin on some sort of near bric-a-brac that looks like it was made in a saw mill or a tile factory.'

"'I know, dear,' she replies soothingly, 'and I hadn't the slightest idea of buying this, but I dropped into an auction room and bid $13 just for fun, and, what do you think, they knocked it down to me. I was so surprised, but I did enjoy bidding so much. It's such fun, really better than a matinee. You never know what you are going to get. I'm going often. I'm sure it must be good for the nerves.'

Bills All the Time

"If it isn't a vase, and a bill, it's a hat and a bill, or a dress and a bill. If I was to go home and not see a bill collector sitting in the front hall waiting for me, I'd know I'd be into the wrong house. My wife doesn't intend to buy anything when she starts out in the morning. She simply meets up with a temptation in the first store that she goes to, and she goes down before it.

"'Of course, John, I didn't really need the hat, but it was such a duck of a thing, and it looked so sweet on me, and the girl that tried it on was really the nicest thing—such lovely manners, and so sympathetic, and she felt so bad when I told her that poor Fido was sick, and that I really didn't have time to buy a hat to-day—that I just took it.'

"Or she will say, 'Can you let me have $20 this morning to pay for that shirt waist I bought yesterday? I hate to ask you for it after all of that dozen that you paid for last week, and I didn't really need it, but it was such a love, and that horrid Mrs. Perkins had just set her heart on buying it, and I was determined that she wouldn't get ahead of me, so I just said right off to the saleslady that I'd take it. I'm afraid that it's a good deal too little for me, but I can have some lace put in it and make it bigger, and it won't make it cost more than $10 more.'

Reckless Expenditure

"It's the same way about the grocery bill and the butcher bill. Reckless expenditure marks our course, and takes the heart and energy and ambition out of me, for no matter how hard I work I cannot put money into my purse as fast as my wife drains it out. I have a good business and with any sort of thrift at home I should be getting rich. As it is, I spend my life in trying to pay domestic bills. I am sold into slavery to dressmakers and hat makers and confectioners, and I tremble before the bill collector and have heart failure at the approach of the boy with a bundle. I am no longer a man. I am reduced to the level of a beast of burden, who is goaded on to pull a load too heavy for him.

"And all of this is the work of a good woman whose spendthrift ways I am utterly unable to control. Day by day I see myself being ruined, yet I am powerless to help it. Therefore, I say that there is no other thing so aggravating in married life as extravagance in a wife."

Is that so, gentlemen?

MARRIED READERS TELL THEIR OWN AGGRAVATIONS

THE MONEY QUESTION

DOROTHY DIX:

YOUR article on "The Aggravations of Married Life" explains my position most explicitly. I am almost a wreck, both physically and mentally, through the daily worry of having to let money go for the bare necessities of life; have been married six years, but feel more like sixty. How often I feel like running away from this prison. But I have three of the sweetest children a mother could wish for, and for their sake contend with a great deal of misery through that awful god—money.

"E."

CALLS HER HOMELY

DOROTHY DIX:

THE most aggravating thing is to have your husband tell you that you are so homely that he is ashamed to have any of his friends see you. I don't think myself homely, as I am only twenty-nine years old, and don't use paint or powder.

MRS. A. VAN B.

ANOTHER HAPPY ONE

DOROTHY DIX:

I HAVE been married two years and deem myself one of the happiest of married women. I have a husband who will grant me every wish, and I also try to grant him. He makes a very good salary, gives me every solitary cent pay day, receives his few dollars pin money and never bothers me for the rest of the week. Never asks me where I spend my money, but lets me buy and do as I please. He is very steady and industrious, never drinks intoxicating liquors and smokes but moderately. He is very good looking, but never gives me the least cause to be jealous; nor I him.

So I want the other happily married women to know that I can join them in happiness. I am but 19, my husband 22.

MRS. J. V. B.

GENEROUS TO OTHERS

DOROTHY DIX:

THE most aggravating thing is for a husband who earns $25 per week to stay out nights, spend a great deal of money and come in at all hours, who has his relatives on visits to him for months every year, giving them spending money, for amusements, pin money, etc., but gives nothing to his wife for clothes or anything else.

FAIR PLAY.

JEALOUS HUSBAND

DOROTHY DIX:

I AM a young married woman, and I have one child. My husband is very jealous. Whenever he sees me going out he always follows me. When he sees me talking to anybody he always asks me what I say and what they say, and if I don't tell him he gets angry.

MRS. S. E.

MONEY MARKET TIGHT

DOROTHY DIX:

THE most aggravating thing in married life is to see your husband with a big full wallet and can't have any of it yourself.

MILK AS AN AID TO BEAUTY

THE value of milk as an aid to beauty is not as well known as it deserves to be. Hot milk slowly sipped is one of the best restoratives known, and will soothe jaded nerves and restore color to the tired face in a most marvellous way.

Then a glass of hot milk taken the last thing at night will often induce "beauty sleep" to visit a woman who usually dreads to retire early because of the sleepless hours she often has to endure.

For the woman who wishes to become plump, nothing is better than a glass of hot milk with a teaspoonful of cream or a little shredded suet added.

This must be taken as extra daily nourishment. Lastly, the safest and one of the most efficient of cosmetics is hot milk.

By nourishing the tissues of the face it induces plumpness and eradicates wrinkles. Moreover, it is a splendid tonic to the skin. It should be applied after the face has been steamed.

When steaming do not use too hot water, as the heat is not good for the skin. Dry the face gently and then lay on a cloth dipped in the warm milk.

Buttermilk is even of greater value as a cosmetic, as it clears and whitens the skin very quickly. It is a good plan to use a little milk with which to brighten the complexion during the day, as this will cleanse it quite as well as soap and water would, and will do the skin good, whereas soap and water constantly used shrivel and harden it.

TOMORROW'S BEST BARGAINS IN BOSTON'S BIG STORES

JAMES A. HOUSTON COMPANY offer a quantity of black silk taffeta and peau de cygne waists in broken lines at less than one-half price to-morrow. You can get waists that sold at $5 for $2.45, not in all sizes in each style, but all sizes in the entire lot. Make your selection early.

FILENE'S will offer 50-cent embroidered linen collars at 35 cents; 75-cent French bows at 35 cents; $1 lace sleeves, to wear with short sleeved shirtwaists, at 50 cents; $1.50 infants' pink and blue sweaters, up to two-year sizes, at 98 cents.

HENRY SIEGEL CO. will have belts of a fine quality duck, narrow, smart effects, with swastika buckle, for 10 cents; also the new dainty little lace-trimmed and embroidered wash belts, with lace-trimmed edges to match Marie Antoinette waists, for 25 cents. Every woman will be pleased with these.

GILCHRIST'S will put on sale to-morrow an exceptional bargain in a fine white lawn waist with solid front of Swiss embroidery, fine graduated tucks in yoke, baby back and three-quarter length sleeves. The collar and cuff bands are of fine embroidered insertion through which is run black ribbon velvet, finishing in a pretty bow—$2.50 value for $1.69.

SHEPARD NORWELL CO. offer a broken lot of women's white silk plated hose, with lace ankle and ribbed top, 8½ and 9 sizes only, regular $1 values, for 50 cents.

E. R. KNIGHTS will offer Marie Antoinette waists made of fine lawn, white ruffled fronts, edged with pink and light blue, tucked front and back, three-quarter sleeves, collar and cuffs handsomely trimmed to match front; regular $1.50 value, for 90 cents. Only one to a customer.

MacDONNELL'S Tremont Temple store offers Tuesday a lot of fine nainsook gowns, lace trimmed, in two styles, at 79 cents each. The material used in these goods is exceptionally good, in fact they're worth $1.

HOUGHTON & DUTTON CO. offer folding garment hangers, regular 10-cent article, for 5 cents; also a great variety of baskets, including handkerchief, glove and waste baskets, for 9 cents, to-morrow. These are from 15 to 35-cent values. They will also have clothes dryers that fasten to the wall, ten arms, regular 49-cent value, for 33 cents.

THE MODEL, in its Winter street store, will offer you an especially good bargain Tuesday in an odd lot of ladies' and misses' suits ranging in values from $15, $18, $20 and $25, all for $8.75. There are only 115 of these suits, which are in panamas, fancy mohairs and wool mixtures. If you want one select it early.

DODGE-SPEAR CO. offer the 75-cent famous Quaker family patent flour for 64 cents an eighth barrel sack. They will also give you liberal samples of "Scrub-e-z" for cleaning bathtubs, marble, paint, woodwork, etc.

TIMOTHY SMITH CO. offer you $3 dress skirts for $1.98. These are made in the new 17-gored kilt style from newest mixtures and plaid materials.

PLAINTIFFS IN EDDY SUIT ASK COMMISSION.

Demand Attorneys for Revered Church Head Consent to Mental Examination.

PLAN TO FORCE POSITION

Special to the Boston American.

CONCORD, N. H., April 22.—That the plaintiffs in the now famous suit in which George W. Glover, the son of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy and others, as "next friends," seek to compel an accounting by Calvin A. Frye and others, will leave no stone unturned to force an investigation into the mental condition of Mrs. Eddy, became apparent last night, when the counsel for the plaintiffs announced that they had made an effort to secure the selection of six persons, three selected by each side, who should visit Mrs. Eddy and examine into her condition.

This proposition was made by them in a letter addressed to General Frank S. Streeter, counsel for Mrs. Eddy. The letter was sent to him March 12, eleven days after the suit was begun. Up to date General Streeter has made no reply, and for this reason, the plaintiffs say, they are making the letter public. When General Streeter was asked last night to make a statement regarding the matter, he would make no reply other than his usual laconic "Nothing to say."

Goes Over Answers.

The complete text of the plaintiffs' letter to General Streeter, follows:

"CONCORD, N. H., March 12, 1907.

Hon. Frank S. Streeter, Concord, N. H.

"Dear Sir—As counsel for George W. Glover, Mary Baker Glover, George W. Baker, Fred W. Baker and E. J. Foster Eddy, suing with Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy as her next friends in the suit of Eddy against Frye and others, we have taken the responsibility of charging as the fundamental fact which give us the right to originate and maintain the suit as such next friends, that the mind of Mrs. Eddy, eighty-six years old, is and for a long time, has been so impaired by infirmities of age and otherwise that she is incapable, in her circumstances, of understanding and protecting her property rights against the undue influence, control and fraud of other persons. Since the bill was filed on March first, we have not failed to notice that this averment of ours is denied by you in words like these:

"'Her capacity to manage her business and other affairs cannot be questioned.

"Mind Is Clear."

"'From my conference with her, her clearness of mind and resolution of purpose have been in no respect impaired by her advanced years. Her capacity to think clearly and to deal accurately and justly with important business affairs has never been more perfectly demonstrated than in her conferences and acts in the last two weeks, and in numerous business letters I have received from her during that time.'

"And that others have joined in your denial, the Hon. Henry M. Baker, in words like these: 'To-day we talked with her for one hour at her house. She sat and talked and gave closest application for the set space of sixty minutes. There was no uncertainty of thought or movement, but in all gesture and soundest sense and strength and acuteness. She receives from 2 to 4, and always there is some one to see her, and I have seen as many as six at a time.

"'She dominated the debate, however, and showed a mind as keen and alert as many a woman forty years her junior.'

Ask Assent to Steps.

"Banker Fred N. Ladd, in the following words: 'Not only is Mrs. Eddy competent to manage her own affairs, but she is a wonderful woman because of her remarkable grasp of intricate financial affairs and her discretion in making investments.'

"In view of these denials, we have the honor to ask you to assent to certain steps designed to ascertain the truth concerning Mrs. Eddy's present and past condition, and to expedite litigation. Unfortunately, we have not free access to Mrs. Eddy's presence, as you have, and we should reluctantly undertake to force our witnesses into her house under circumstances which might prove disturbing or injurious to her, notwithstanding the confidence of yourself, Mr. Baker and other gentlemen that she is capable of so much labor and endurance as you have described.

Propose Commission.

"But you have the free right of entrance to Mrs. Eddy's house and can readily secure admittance and considerate interviews with her of the witnesses by whom her condition of body and mind is to be established in the pending legal proceedings.

"We therefore propose that you select three competent gentlemen and that we select three others, and that at various convenient hours the six be allowed to visit Mrs. Eddy and by observation and conversation qualify themselves to be witnesses for or against our contention, no one but these six persons to be allowed to talk with her and not more than six additional persons, selected in the same way, to be permitted to be present.

"We are confident that you and the counsel for the defendants will welcome this offer of ours as proposing a wise and considerate method of expediting litigation.

Plaintiff's Counsel Gather.

"If the facts thus obtained and such other testimony as may be pertinent shall justify our vital contention, we should be glad that you agreed to our plan of proof; if, on the other hand, the trial shall demonstrate the truth of your widely proclaimed assertions, you will not regret that you accepted our sensible and amicable proposition. Yours very truly,

"WILLIAM E. CHANDLER,
"MARTIN & HOWE,
"JOHN W. KELLEY."

Former Senator William E. Chandler, special counsel for George W. Glover and the other plaintiffs, has taken apartments at the Eagle Hotel, and is to remain during the week. John W. Kelley of Portsmouth is expected to arrive to-day, and both will be in conference with Martin & Howe of this city during the day. Some new and startling move is hinted at by the plaintiff counsel as likely to come any moment. What this proposed move is to be is, however, closely guarded by them.

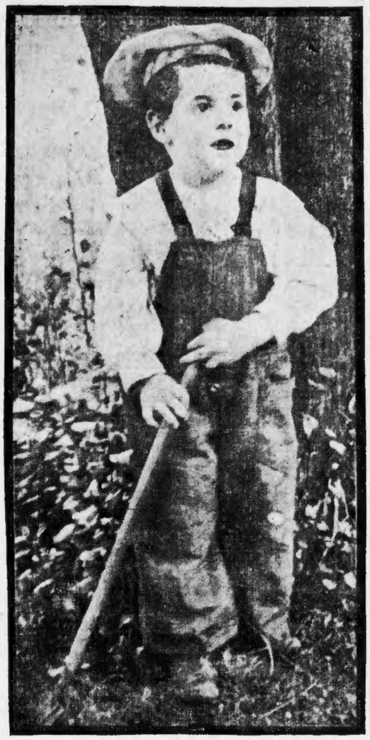

STARVING CREW OF 30 RESCUED

NEW BEDFORD, April 22.—In a starving condition after having lived for ten days on tea and hard bread, the crew of thirty of the whaling bark Greyhound of this port set foot on shore here yesterday, after a trying two weeks' experience.

The tug J. T. Sherman brought the bark to port after a hard struggle.

DIPHTHERIA CLAIMS BOY AS VICTIM

Another victim was claimed by the diphtheria epidemic which has been raging in Dorchester, Hyde Park and Milton, when twelve-year-old John Peterson died at his home on Granger street yesterday. He had been ill four days, and is said to have contracted the disease from milk.

Seventy-four cases of diphtheria, forty-two of them in Dorchester, according to Dr. Harrington, head of the State Board of Health, have broken out in families which got their milk from a farm on which a child became ill of the disease before the epidemic materialized.

The city and State health authorities believe that they now have the epidemic under control.

SOCIETY WOMAN TAKES REST CURE

NEW YORK, April 22.—Mrs. Phil Lydig left on Saturday for Mill Hall Sanatorium, Katonah, N. Y., to take the rest cure. She has broken down under the strain on the last lap of the social season. Mrs. Lydig has been a picturesquely interesting character of the Winter's social whirl, and her popularity has made her the centre of certain social sets, who all declare that Mrs. Phil is as noted a hostess as she is a beauty.

For the third time the case of David M. Brown, the sixteen-year-old Brookline boy held in the accidental shooting of his playmate, Frank G. Peck, at the former's home in Brookline, April 6, was continued to-day for one week. The condition of young Peck is still very critical.

JEALOUS OF CALVE, GIRL KILLS SELF

NEW YORK, April 22.—Jealous of Mme. Calve, the great singer, Isabelle Routtelot committed suicide by gas in the apartments of Louis Belleville, her former sweetheart.

The couple had been engaged, but the engagement was broken following a violent quarrel two months ago over Calve. Belleville is a 'cellist in the orchestra of the Manhattan Opera House, and in this capacity has been thrown much in the company of Mme. Calve. This business relation caused the girl to become insanely jealous, and their engagement was broken.

She obtained admission to Belleville's apartment to-day, stuffed every crevice of the room, turned on the gas, and when found was dead.

HUSTLE, B. & A. MUST GET TOYS BY CHRISTMAS

Van Etten Vows That Buffalo Shall Have Them in Time to Hang On Trees.

500 MILES--ONLY 250 DAYS

TWO MILES A DAY.

By Morton Birge.

"WE CAN do it," yelled Van Etten,
"We WILL do it, if we bust.
One can get away with wonders
If one really knows one must.
Buffalo from Boston lieth
But five hundred miles away,
And who says we can't accomplish
Even two long miles a day."

So the word went sizzling downward
From the office of the Chief,
And the understrappers hustled
In a way beyond belief,
For they knew that when Van Etten
Stamped his foot and said his say
None could take the least exception
And expect to draw his pay.

If you see a freight train scooting
Westward from the Boston shore
At a speed surpassing reckless,
Dashing gay the country o'er,
You will know they're breaking
Records all along the B. & A.
And inflexible Van Etten's
Special freight is under way.

Watch it close or you will miss it
Flying fast from town to town.
It's the scintillating triumph
Of Van Etten's starry crown.
It's his transportation darling.
It's his brightest sunshine ray.
It's the limit for Van Etten—
Shoving freight two miles a day.

THE Boston & Albany railroad is up against it.

But it's going to get away with it or Van Etten is going to know why. In this particular instance Mr. Van Etten, vice-president of the B. & A., is very much from Mizzoury and has gotter be shown.

"It," the thing which the road is up against, is the problem of getting a cargo of toys from Boston to Buffalo by next Christmas.

The toys have just arrived via the steamer Marquette from Antwerp. They are consigned to a Buffalo toy dealer. The shipper, being unaware of the fearful and wonderful things pertaining to American railroads in general and the Boston & Albany in particular, allowed that, if the shipment arrived in Boston this April, it ought to get in Buffalo by next Christmas. So he took his time and sent them along on the Marquette.

Now they are in Boston and it's up to the B. & A. to get them over to Buffalo in time for the Buffalo kids to have them for Christmas morning.

"It Shall Be Done."

There was much excitement when the arrival of the cargo became known in the B. & A. offices here. Word was immediately sent to Vice-President Van Etten that the shipment must get through to Buffalo for Christmas, even if it put the road out of business.

In this emergency Mr. Van Etten dropped all other matters and gave his undivided attention to the problem in hand.

"Boston to Buffalo is 500 miles," he figured, "and there are now about—lemme see, about 250 days to Christmas, that is two—Merciful Moses!"

"Why," he gasped a minute later, "it's two whole miles a day, not allowing for head winds or other delays to travel."

Then his natural calm, the stern immutability that marks the great captain of industry, returned. He looked the issue squarely in the face.

"It could be done. It SHALL be done."

That's all there was to the proposition. It could be done and it SHOULD be. Just that—with his eyes shut as it were.

Will Put on Best Engine.

So the order went forth. It was easy enough for Van Etten to give this order and then go placidly on, as though he had requested nothing unusual. But it caused a terrific scurry in the operating departments. The entire resources of the freight managers is being centered on this job. The road is being polished from end to end. The "Christmas Freight" is to be given the right of way. The best engineer and fireman will be picked for the job and a new Mogul engine, warranted to buck the stiffest breeze that ever blew across the Berkshires, is to be put on the run.

For Van Etten is to put that cargo through by Christmas or know why.

That's Van Etten.

BANDIT CHIEF FUGITIVE FROM ITALIAN POLICE

Several Times a Slayer, Declare Officers Who Made New York Arrest.

WAS CAPTURED IN RAID

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Much startling information about Eunice Alfano, the celebrated bandit and head of the powerful Camorra, the Italian secret society, who was arrested in a raid here yesterday, was secured by the police to-day.

It was found that Alfano, who is charged with several assassinations and many cases of blackmail, escaped to New York from Naples disguised as a stoker, and that since his arrival in this country he has built up a strong personal machine which until now has been successful in protecting him from the police.

Word was received from Naples to-day to the effect that the Italian police want him badly, and that extradition proceedings have been begun. One of the minor charges against him is that he came to this country by means of a false passport.

The offence is a minor one as compared with the charges of murder that have been made against him.

Petrosini and Archiopolla, the New York detectives, who are in charge of the investigation, said to-day that there is proof in existence that Alfano, who in Italy is known as "Erricone," killed Cuocolo, who had aspired to the leadership of the band of blackmailers and bandits. The murder of the wife of the pretender has also been laid at the door of Alfano and his friends.

The police said to-day that they hoped to be able to make a complete exposure of the inner workings of the Camorra, which, they said, has operated not only in Italy, but in cities in this country, and which is universally feared by the Italians.

PLAN STATE FEDERATION

Archbishop O'Connell addressed for the first time the federation of Catholic Societies of Suffolk County at its annual meeting in St. Rose Hall yesterday, urging the good that would come by united effort and the formation of a State body.

The following officers were chosen: Henry Wessling, president, James W. Scanlon, 1st vice-president, T. D. Monast, 2d vice-president, James T. Riley 3d vice-president, Peter C. Ulrich, recording secretary, Timothy Brinnin, financial secretary, James W. McQuiggan, librarian, Rev. F. W. Dolan, chaplain, James J. Conway, treasurer. President Wessling in his report recommended that steps be taken looking for the formation of a State organization. The recommendation was adopted.

CLARK LOSES $350,000 PURSE

TRINIDAD, Col., April 22.—An advertisement is inserted in local papers to-day asking for the return of a black leather purse, and offering $1,000 reward. It is learned that the purse was lost by ex-Senator William A. Clark of Montana on his recent visit to Trinidad and the mining property he owns in Las Animas County. The lost purse contained only $100, but $350,000 or more is the value attached to certain papers which it contained. The missing papers are deeds to coal lands valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars, and priorities of water rights which are invaluable to Senator Clark and the allied Charles Francis Adams estate. Should the missing papers not be found it is probable that the city of Trinidad need have no fear for the threatened $350,000 suit over the water supply. It is supposed that Mr. Clark lost the papers when he fell into the river and was nearly drowned.

WOMAN'S SUIT WINS $863.52.

SAVES THREE FROM FLAMES

Special to the Boston American.

LOWELL, April 22.—But for the presence of mind of Thomas Golden of No. 132 Fayette street, last night, three little children of Hugh Wilson and wife might have been suffocated. Shortly after 9 o'clock Golden discovered that the tenement in the rear of his house, occupied by the Wilson family, was on fire.

Golden broke in the rear door and rushed to the bedroom on the first floor, where a six-months-old infant was sleeping. Wilson was sound asleep on the floor. Golden brought the baby to the street and turned in an alarm. Then he went back and took out the other two children.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

The kidneys are essential organs for keeping the body free from impurities. If they should fail to work death would ensue in very short time.

Inflammation or irritation caused by some feminine derangement may spread to some extent to the Kidneys and affect them. The cause can be so far removed by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that the trouble will disappear.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, swelling of the limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Nothing daunted by the bad beating which the team suffered Saturday at the hands of Al Orth, and the "men behind," Manager George A. Huff of the Boston Americans will probably send Cy Young, the old reliable, to the firing line this afternoon to down Clarke Griffiths Highlanders.

The locals are sailing pretty smoothly these days, and it takes some tall hustling and playing to beat them, so Manager Huff will have to play his best cards to-day if he hopes for a victory. Young has been the most consistent winner of the Pilgrim's pitching corps to date, and he undoubtedly is just the man to stem the tide of defeat, which now numbers two straight.

There is much speculation as to who Manager Huff will pick to captain the team. The prevailing opinion seems to be First Baseman Bob Unglaub is the best man for the position, and the one that Huff will choose.

Yesterday was a quiet day for the players. The weather being cold, the players kept indoors nearly all the time.

HARVARD CREW MAKING FINE PROGRESS

An unexpected shift took place in the order of the Harvard varsity crew in the first practice spin Thursday during the vacation. Richardson was put in in place of Amberg at the fifth oar, and Tappan, who has rowed at No. 3, and Faulkner, who has rowed at bow, exchanged positions.

Richardson was always a logical man for the first crew, but about a month ago was forced to leave the varsity on account of injuries received in a hockey game. In the meanwhile Lunt's good work qualified him for Richardson's place at No. 2 which he will probably continue to hold. Amberg is not in the physical condition for good work and has been obliged to retire from the varsity on account of illness. It is not thought that he will be able to make any of the other crews. He looked like a good man at the beginning of the season but he has been on the toboggan ever since.

The exchange between Tappan and Faulkner, which places the former at bow, is a wise move. The bow position is a responsible one and should be held by the most experienced man. Tappan was one of the most efficient members of the international crew last Summer and nique of rowing is hard to excel. He is nique of rowing is hard to excell. He is one of the most steady and consistent oarsmen on the eight.

The wisdom of Coach Wray's selection of last year's freshmen crew is more and more proved by their performances. They are now practically fixtures on the varsity.

The varsity rowed well together Thursday and Saturday. The boat sets on an even keel and nearly all the tendencies toward poor style of the first few weeks have been eradicated, so that it is safe to say that Harvard is probably as far along in point of development as any other college crew at the present time.

The Harvard coaches take some encouragement and hope from the fact that as yet Cornell is still in the experimental stage, the men being shifted about in the first crew until they hesitate about taking seats before Courtney assigns them to them.

The Doves are out to break the ice this afternoon at the South End grounds, and it would not be surprising to see them make away with the scalps of the Giants, who made merry with them in the two games already played.

It has been pretty tough on the home team to lose two games to the New York faction, and both by wide margins, so they are out for revenge to-day, and lanky Pfeffer, he from Illinois University, will probably be the man selected to creep upon the Giants unawares, and take away their "big seven league boots."

Christy Mathewson will probably be sent in the box for the visitors, and as they say that the big Gotham star is in good shape these days, the fans will probably be treated to a rare exhibition of the twirler's art.

Only two of the regular Boston National team are batting over the .300 mark. They are Beaumont, with .321, and Brain with .300. Dorner and Young have a mark of .333.

Bates is the only regular with a perfect fielding average, while every pitcher, excepting Boultes and Catcher Brown, have 1.000 percentages.

MANY STAR ENTRIES IN EARLY CLOSING STAKE RACES AT READVILLE

A glance at the entry list of the early-closing stake races for the Grand Circuit meeting at Readville next August is sufficient to show that the racing will be up to the standard of years past, and this means the best in the entire country.

There was not the falling off in the number that Secretary Charles Jewett was afraid of soon after the entry list had closed, while the quality of the horses named would be impossible to improve, as the foremost on the turf are represented in the stakes.

No less than thirty-nine trotters have been entered in the classic Massachusetts $9,000 event. It would be an act of foolishness to attempt picking the probable winner at this stage, but some of the most prominent horses named, judging from their performances last year in public or private, are Grattan Boy, Jr., with a creditable report of having been timed in 2:08¾ in a race; Bellemont, the fast mare from California; Highball and Lucretia from the stable of Ed. Geers; Lady Margaret, the Western mare so much talked about in Tommy Murphy's string; Marechael, which as a three-year-old stopped the watch in better than 2:10; Princine, that all know Jack Crabtree saved over last season for the stakes this season; Sadie Fogg, the favorite mare of Len McDonald's list of flyers, and the touted Pittsburg mare Cora Direct.

In the Norfolk $6,000 pace some old-time favorites are noticed in Al. Peck, Aintree, Billy Cole, Claymos, Edwin S., Ethel Mac, Harry L., John A., Judex, Kruger, Sam Rysdyke, Wilson Addington, and Hal Direct. In all, twenty-eight have been entered in the event.

36 Entered in Blue Hill.

The Blue Hill for 2:30 class trotters has received the goodly number of thirty-six horses. With Brace Girdle, Burma Girl, Cinty Latus, Cordero, Dreamwood, Hawkins, Marjorie, Sadie Fogg, Sonoma, Tokio, Ward, Wigman, and Sidney Carton among the list the fight for the money must be fast and furious.

The Ponkapoag for 2:10 class trotters has nineteen in. The ones from New England are Advancer, Axcyell, Betty Brook, Budd, El Milargo, Lady Resolute and Miss Adbell. Certainly a red-hot bunch.

In the Neponset for 2:06 class pacers is noted Custer, Doris B., Hal C., Jennie W., Lady Sealskin, Lancelot, Princess Helen, Prince Hal, Robert Lee, Stein, Stella Oaks, Texas Rooker, The Friend, and Vesta Boy.

Following is the complete list of entries in the Massachusetts and Norfolk stakes:

HONEY 10 TO 8 CHOICE OVER 'MIKE 'TWIN'

Special to the Boston American.

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—With the "Honey" Mellody-Mike (Twin) Sullivan fight but twenty-four hours away, the betting remains at 10 to 8, with the Charlestown boy the favorite.

This is considered one of the most classy fights scheduled in Los Angeles, and the sale of seats and reservations is extra large.

Mellody put in a busy day yesterday, which was the last day's work he will do. He was on the road early for a long run of six miles, and then took it easy until afternoon. The crowd of visitors at the gymnasium was enormous, the place being crowded to suffocation at 3 o'clock, the hour set for Mellody to spar.

Johnny Mooney, Mellody's manager, is highly pleased with his man's condition.

"I have trained Honey for many a fight, but he was never in better shape than now. We anticipate a hard fight with Sullivan, but we are confident of pulling down the winner's end," said Mooney.

When Mellody faces Sullivan to-morrow night he will have three good men behind him. His manager, Kelly and McDonald will look after his interests.

Out at Arcadia the Sullivan boys played to a large crowd also. The twins boxed four rounds, and then Mike boxed four rounds with Jimmie McDonald in addition to the usual grind of gymnasium work. Mike's weight was 144.

"This thing of Mellody being the favorite in the betting doesn't worry me a bit," said Jack, acting as spokesman for his brother. "Any time Mike goes into the ring he has an even chance to win and you can gamble on that. My brother has trained faithfully for this contest. We are not under-rating Mellody in the least. We know he is a good man and we expect a hard fight, but Mike will win, and after that we will go after Joe Thomas or any other top-notcher."

JIM DONOVAN COMING CHAMP

Jim Donovan of New York has just deposited $1,000 with a New York paper for a match with Mike Donovan of Rochester, N. Y., or he will let it stand for Tommy Sullivan of Lawrence, if the New England boy wants a chance.

The two Donovans put up one of the fastest ten-round bouts at Portland last month ever seen in the Maine city, and both are wanted up there to meet again.

There are many New York sports who think that Jim Donovan is the best man in the country to meet Joe Thomas, the unbeaten heavy welterweight, and he will be matched with the Californian boy as soon as he disposes of some of the boxers in his class.

AUTO MAKERS DISCUSS ALCOHOL ACETYLENE FUEL

BY J. C. KERRISON.

A standard for horsepower rating and alcohol acetylene as a fuel were the subjects taken up at the afternoon session of the April meeting of the mechanical branch of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, held last week. The need of a universal method for computing horsepower was discussed and suggestions for the adoption of an A. L. A. M. horsepower standard recommended.

The horsepower of a car under the present ratings, may mean anything a salesman may say, as various formulae for computing these ratings are used, no two giving the same results. After having the advisability of a universal rating under consideration for several months, the standards suggested by the branch were to be taken from a brake test at the fly wheel, in conjunction with a formula to be suggested by the test committee.

Two units are to be used, the lower being the actual rating from the brake tests, as computed from an indicator at 1,000 feet per minute piston speed, and the higher number to be the maximum horsepower developed from superior workmanship or the results of a better type motor. For example, in a 20-24 horsepower motor, the 20 would be the actual horsepower at 1,000 feet per minute piston speed and the 24 the horsepower which would be developed when not under normal conditions. The value of this is readily seen, as it would eliminate, in many cases, the work of salesmen or entrants in tests in rating a car at 30 horsepower when it would actually develop 60, thereby not only misrepresenting the rating of a car, but eliminating the advantage gained by this misrepresentation over an entrant of a car which gave the actual rating.

* * *

Although there is talk of an importers' show in Madison Square Garden after the two national shows in New York, it is not believed that the foreigners will permit the Americans to secure all the early visitors, which would be the result if they didn't participate in the shows at Grand Central Palace and the Garden during November. Of course the American makers might prefer to eliminate the foreigners from their shows, but, on the other hand, the importers are wise enough not to be led into any plan that will prevent their showing at these two shows, even though later they might have a show of their own. A date near Christmas is not in favor.

Although some of them might not have their 1908 models here in time for the American shows, it is well known that Mercedes and others have been assured of 1908 models for the Palace show, while Renault and other well-known makers have declared they would be in the November shows, even if they later on participated in a show for importers only.

Word has just been received by the Hol-Tan Company that their star driver, Lancia, will drive F. I. A. T. cars, not only in the Grand Prix and Kaiser race, but that he will also come to America for the next Vanderbilt cup race. The F. I. A. T. Company of Turin has been making a number of additions to its factory recently, and to-day it is not only the largest automobile organization in Italy, but one of the largest in the world. It includes departments for building motor trucks of all kinds, motor racing boats and torpedo and naval auxiliaries of all kinds. The factory covers many acres of ground and more than 5,000 hands are employed.

MERTES FOR MINNEAPOLIS.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Sandow Mertes, a controversy over whose services caused the National Baseball Commission to declare him a "free agent," has signed with the Minneapolis team of the American Association. He left for Louisville last night to report to Manager Cantillon.

BILL SQUIRES DOESN'T LIKE THE LIMELIGHT

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Of a certainty no other Australian fighter who ever came to these parts had as auspicious a coming ashore as modest Bill Squires. According to popular belief some of the old-time Antipodean sluggers, who after reaching here became stars, worked their way across the Pacific as pantry men, and were not allowed to clamber onto the dock until long after their vessel had tied up.

Newcastle Bill came first cabin, and was permitted to erect punching bag ceilings and otherwise convert the steamship Ventura into a training camp on the way over.

He was the most popular passenger aboard, and when landing time came all the other voyagers took turns at gripping his big fist and wishing him good luck.

Is Kept Busy.

In addition he was interviewed and photographed by the newspaper workers from the moment the ship passed in quarantine until his friends bundled him into an automobile at the dock. Then the shore crowd took him in hand, and the good-natured greetings which were shouted at him while the buzz wagon was wriggling about in search of clear sailing should cause him to remember his setting foot on American territory as long as he lives.

And, strange to say, Squires dislikes the limelight. He may get over this when he has won a few fights and played a few vaudeville engagements, but just at present he is as shy as a schoolgirl.

And at that he has a strong face. It is the face of a man one would place reliance in and repose confidence in, whether he was tooling you through crazy mountain roads on a stage coach, steering you across a rough channel in a sailboat or fighting for you in a prize ring. It is a determined, never-say-die face.

Squires Doesn't Look Big.

At first glance Squires doesn't look big. When you size him up piecemeal he improves. He is narrow faced, with a marked resemblance to Tex Rickard of Goldfield and Ely, but he has a good neck. He fills out his coat in such a way as to suggest big back muscles and swelling biceps, and he has large strong hands and wrists.

As he swings along the street his crouchy, swingy gait leaves the impression that it is in him to spring half the width of the ring, if necessary, to close on his man.

"Doesn't look big enough for Jeffries," was the remark heard a score of times when the San Francisco connisseurs were passing judgment on Squires, yet he will average up with Tom Sharkey, Joe Choynski, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett, who figured extensively in Jeffries's ring affairs.

Anyhow, Squires says that he sees plenty of work in sight before he gets around to Jeffries, if, indeed, he is ever called upon to sign up with big Jim.

"So far as I am concerned I will fight anybody," says the Australian, "and the fact that my backer, John Wren, wants to bet a thousand pounds on me shows that we are not dodging anybody or looking for losers' ends.

"But let the matchmakers of this country select the man they think I ought to meet, and they will find me ready. All I want is two months to get acquainted with the California climate.

Jeff May Redeem Promise

"If I beat men like Burns and O'Brien I have no doubt that Mr. Jeffries will redeem his promise that he won't allow any foreigner to walk off with the championship, so that I have no reason to worry about Jeffries.

"If I qualify for a go with him I'll get it."

Squires is a great believer in the efficacy and adaptibility of American slang catch phrases, and began to study how to talk "Allee samee Mellican man" the first day out from Sydney. His researches along the lines mentioned enabled him to enjoy something that happened the night his vessel dropped into San Francisco Bay.

A launch ranged alongside the liner, and a reporter introduced Squires across 100 feet of rushing tide.

"Have you brought a trainer with you, Mr. Squires?" was asked.

"No," was the reply. "The American methods of conditioning men so far supersede ours that I am going to avail myself of an American trainer."

"You're starting to hand out the bull early, ain't you?" came from the interview launch, and Squires laughed the loudest of all those leaning over the big steamer rail.

The Australian is notional in some things. He has a superstitious faith in the virtues of Eucalyptus oil as an unguent, and he shuddered when he discovered that a two-gallon demijohn of the odorous stuff ordered in Sydney had been left behind.

Can Get Oil Here.

"He was the most pleased man in the world when he heard to-day he can get the oil here," said Manager Barney Reynolds, who came over with him. "Why, he would fret so that his training wouldn't do him any good if he wasn't rubbed down with the oil every day. He puts it on his handkerchief for perfume, and to-day, when they were whirling up through Golden Gate Park in an automobile he raised his hat to the tall blue gum trees. He's a thorough paced Australian, he is."

This man Reynolds gives us a highly amusing description of the meeting between Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Squires at Tom's Cabin, on the road to the beach.

"I hoped that O'Brien prided himself on his ability to read a man, and I watched him closely," said Barney. "Why, his two eyes were roaming up and down and all over Bill. Sometimes they would meet and cross over and come down different sides. He was so deep in sizing Bill up that he lost the thread of his talk and coughed and stammered. All this time Bill was just taking O'Brien in out of a corner of his eye, and I'll bet he saw more with one eye than O'Brien saw with two.

"In justice to O'Brien it must be said that he remarked with all the graciousness in the world after it was over: 'I am very favorably impressed with Squires. I think he is a very likely fellow.' "

The prospects of a fight at Los Angeles between Tommy Burns and Jack O'Brien are improving. O'Brien has held that McCarey promised to put a forfeit of $10,000 up, and failed to do so. McCarey insisted that he is offered a purse of $30,000, and that the articles did not call for any forfeit from the promoter. There was a deadlock for several days, and then McCarey decided to post $10,000 anyhow, so as to force O'Brien to show his hand. On hearing this O'Brien sent word that he would leave for Los Angeles and start training at Arcadia.

"If the $10,000 is up in good faith there will be a fight," said 'Brien. "If there is any attempt at sharp practices I will return to San Francisco and will have nothing further to do with Burns and McCarey."

Down at Los Angeles the stand is taken that McCarey stated the case correctly, and that there was no provision for a $10,000 forfeit when the match was arranged. The opinion in the Southland is that O'Brien fears defeat, and that he will yet wriggle out of the affair with Burns.

The day after his arrival Barney Reynolds, manager of Bill Squires, posted $5,000 with the San Francisco Examiner to support a challenge to the winner of the Burns-O'Brien fight.

FUNERAL OF F. P. O'CONNELL ON THURSDAY

The funeral of Frederick P. O'Connell, baseball editor of the Post, who died at West Baden Springs, Ind., on Sunday morning, will be held at St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill, Dorchester, on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. His body is expected to arrive in Boston late this afternoon.

The death of Mr. O'Connell was a severe shock to his hosts of friends in Boston and vicinity. Although only twenty-five years old, he had a very wide circle of acquaintances. He was a most conscientious writer and always wrote as he saw things.

He was a prominent figure in the college athletic world. During the football season he acted as official in many games.

Such was the confidence reposed in his integrity that the Phillips Andover Academy eleven for two years selected him to act as umpire in their important games. Brown, Holy Cross, Bowdoin, Tufts and other colleges made frequent demands upon his services.

He served as referee in some of the important games at Harvard and won the confidence and esteem of the coaches there.

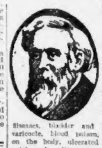

Among his newspaper associates Fred O'Connell was the soul of popularity. To know him was to like him, and he was the true friend of everyone.

At the Night Workers' Chapel at 3:30 yesterday morning mass was offered by Father Lyons for the repose of his soul. Masses were also offered up for him in the Dorchester churches.

LABOR NEWS

TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOS. N. MASS. 96

Coming up first yesterday in the address of Arthur ... Huddell, who was unanimously re-elected president of the Central Labor Union, the subject of a Labor Temple for the fifty union organizations of Boston was later given into the hands of a committee, with orders to report upon it as soon as possible. Other business transacted at yesterday's meeting included a protest against the military and naval features of Old Home Week programme. Rev. Eliot White of Worcester was the educational hour speaker. The semi-annual election resulted in the unanimous re-election of the present officers.

BOILER MAKERS ASK INCREASE.

Making a demand on their employers for an eight-hour day and an increase of 15 per cent. in wages, the 1,000 members of Boiler Makers' Union No. 12, employed by the fourteen large concerns in Boston, report that they are equipped for a struggle should it come May 1. The employers have offered a compromise, which was refused, and another conference will be held this week.

GOVERNMENT-BUILT SHIPS.

Under the auspices of Boston Branch No. 2, National League of Employes of Navy Yards, Naval Stations, Arsenals and Gun Factories, will be held a mass meeting in Faneuil Hall, Friday night, to agitate the building of warships at navy yards. The speakers will include Mayor Fitzgerald, Hon. William S. McNary, Congressman William M. Calder, New York, and representative local labor men.

LABOR NOTES.

Boston & Maine roundhouse employes in Boston and vicinity have been granted a 10 per cent. wage increase, in effect to-day.

Church organ workers did not strike this morning, as it had previously been decided to do. Conferences to discuss an adjustment have been arranged for this week.

P. J. Flannery of Chicago, international president of the Interior Freight Handlers and Railway Clerks' Union, yesterday spoke before a big meeting of N. Y., N. H. & H. Freight Handlers' Union No. 70 in Wells Memorial Building.

William J. Dougherty of Buffalo, general organizer of the Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers, yesterday afternoon addressed the members of Boston Local No. 209 on conditions that prevail.

The new park department union was permanently organized yesterday by Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L.

Five firms, employing a majority of the members, have signed the 1907 wage and working rules request of Wharf and Bridge Carpenters' Union. The other firms are expected to sign this week.

C. P. Shea, international president of the teamsters, addressed his own local, Boston General Teamsters' Union, last night. It was virtually a reception to him.

FREE ADVENTIST OF THEFT CHARGE

Benjamin C. Chadwick, a twenty-two-year-old missionary of the Seventh Day Adventists, was found not guilty in the Superior Court to-day on the charge of larceny preferred by Mrs. E. M. Berry of Jamaica Plain. Mrs. Berry testified that jewels had been stolen from her house after Chadwick had called there selling religious books.

LUMBER CAMP HORSES

REMEMBER, WE HAVE NO CONNECTION WITH ANY OTHER STABLE. Leave either elevated or surface cars at Dover st. and you are right at our door. There are other sales stables in Boston, but we are the only one that has a supply from which any one can select and be satisfied in every particular. We sell a hundred head while others are selling a pair. Take a look in and see the 200 or more horses that we offer at rock-bottom prices. We handle all the business for truckmen and lumber camp contractors; in fact, all who wish to turn their horseflesh into dollars quick, we sell them on commission. Your offer will be accepted if it is a reasonable one.

We Offer Some Sensational Bargains

THE coming week, having received on April 20 100 head from the largest lumber camp contractor in New England, who tells us to get him money quick, and we are going to do it this week. These horses range in weight from 1,150 lbs. up to 1,800 lbs single and from 2,300 up to 3,500 lbs. pair, all ages. Prices from $25 upward. All broken and acclimated. The Best Pianos New and Second Hand

Don't get the impression that only second-hand pianos can be had at these sales. As a matter of fact, we sometimes sell the entire stock of new Pianos of some small Piano Trust Dealer, who through force of circumstances was obliged to "shut up shop," store his stock and finally let it go. We have in the course of a year hundreds of new Trust Pianos that in the "course of events" come up in the salesrooms to be sold and always at a sacrifice.

We would advise you to make up your mind to buy your Piano as soon as circumstances will allow you. Some weeks there are not enough Pianos in the lot to last through Saturday, and we do not take any from the accounts for sale until Mondays—People who get in and buy Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays get tremendous bargains—Every Piano is tuned by our expert and is at concert pitch before coming into our salesroom—We let no Piano go out before being assured of its excellent condition.

The Murderous Game of War

What MIGHT Be Done With the Money That Nations Spend for Killing

This is a time of peace talk. It is true that the building of warships and the making of cannon go on even more energetically than the peace talk and peace planning.

But it is true, also, that human beings are BEGINNING to see the folly of the old war game. War was the game of kings, the ordinary human beings were the playthings with which they amused themselves.

Gradually these playthings, formerly called, in Napoleon's words, "Flesh for cannon," have begun to realize that since they govern themselves THEY OUGHT TO STOP MURDERING ONE ANOTHER FOR NO REASON IN PARTICULAR.

Peace talkers can do much good by calling attention to the financial side of war and the possibility of spending for the good of human beings the thousands of millions spent annually in murdering them or in preparing to murder them.

The armies now maintained for the purpose of killing men should be changed first of all into armies kept up for the purpose of combating THE NATURAL ENEMIES OF MEN—for combating fevers, swamps, deserts, quicksands and dangerous wild beasts.

In the United States alone the money that we squander on the army and on the navy could increase enormously the wealth of this country and the happiness and the opportunities of its citizens.

Fortunately, America is setting something of an example in the line of fighting the enemies of all mankind, INSTEAD OF FIGHTING MEN.

This country, for instance, has irrigated the Yakima Valley, and vast tracts of land before worthless, harmful to the climate, covered with stunted vegetation, are now covered with beautiful orchards, a source of wealth and happiness to human beings.

There are in the United States SIX HUNDRED MILLION ACRES of land worthless for lack of water. Irrigation would make these six hundred millions of acres valuable, wealth-producing, population-sustaining.

The arid lands of the United States alone represent ALMOST ONE HUNDRED ACRES OF GROUND FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE COUNTRY. How much nobler it would be if the courage, the industry and the spending power of this nation were used to make the nation richer and happier.

Clumsy, barbarous warships keep thousands of men imprisoned, our forts are filled with men going through useless, demoralising drilling, WHILE WAITING FOR A CHANCE TO KILL SOMEBODY. All wasted time and money; one hundred millions a year.

In addition to the arid lands that need irrigation there are in the United States vast swamp areas, in many States, from Arkansas to New Jersey. Statistics show that already there has been application made for legislation to drain lands amounting to fifty millions of acres.

Every acre of this swamp land could be drained by an expenditure nothing like as great as that which is devoted to our fighting machinery, which we ought never to use, except in case of attack.

The drainage of this land would give to the American nation rich, fertile soil, EXCEEDING IN VALUE FIVE THOUSAND MILLIONS OF DOLLARS. This would mean an increase to the crop values in the United States of One Thousand Five Hundred Millions of dollars annually.

Think of that, think how noble it would be if the money and the men, the energy, and the genius which we spend in preparing to fight human beings should be devoted to reclaiming that vast American area in need of drainage.

Think how disease would be diminished by the destruction of the mosquitoes that spread malaria, and yellow fever, and other diseases.

Think of this one fact: "If it were possible to sub-divide this enormous area into forty-acre farms, it would supply two million five hundred families with homes, and would put twelve million people upon lands that are now practically worthless."

Isn't that something worth thinking about and worth working for?

Is it not disgraceful that intelligent human beings, able to read, able to study and understand history, ABLE TO REALIZE THE UNNECESSARY HORROR AND SHAME OF WAR, should use their greatest energies, their best and youngest men, their best inventive talent, ENORMOUS CAPITAL, in preparing for a brutal, ceaseless game of slaughter?

The men kept under arms by humanity at this moment COULD IN A FEW YEARS IRRIGATE EVERY DESERT AND DRAIN EVERY MARSH ON THE SURFACE OF THE EARTH.

We hope that our readers will think along lines of peace, of common sense, working for the day when the murders that we forbid among INDIVIDUALS shall still be forbidden among NATIONS.

If this nation is to have an army, IT SHOULD BE A GREAT ARMY OF NATIONALLY EMPLOYED MEN, ABLE IN CASE OF NEED TO DEFEND US AGAINST ATTACK, BUT USING ALL THEIR TIME IN RECLAIMING DESERTS AND SWAMPS TO THE NATION.

And if we must have a navy, let us have vessels of high speed and power, carrying our products, paying seamen well, and giving them, as an incident of their career in the national navy, the knowledge that will enable them to act as defenders IN CASE OF ATTACK.

We must be prepared to resist attack, of course, as long as the nations permit the shameful game of war to go on. But there is no reason why we should not have an agricultural, irrigating, draining, working army, just as well able to defend the nation as the old farmers were in 1776, OR AS THE BOERS WERE RECENTLY.

There is no reason why we should not have a magnificent national mercantile marine, fast vessels of high power, able in time of need to defend the country with guns that can be taken aboard only when necessary.

Instead of a small army, which would not cut much figure in case of war, we could have AN ENORMOUS NATIONAL ARMY OF IRRIGATION AND DRAINAGE NUMBERING HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS, WELL PAID, WELL DRILLED.

And instead of a little navy, a handful of war vessels, a toy, we could have such a national mercantile marine as the world never saw, THOUSANDS OF BIG SHIPS COVERING EVERY OCEAN, FLYING THE AMERICAN FLAG, OWNED BY THE AMERICAN NATION, AND A WARNING TO ALL OTHERS TO LEAVE US ALONE, AS WE SHOULD LEAVE THEM ALONE.

PUBLIC PAYS THE ADVANCE IN FREIGHT RATES

The American Portland Cement Manufacturers, in session in Philadelphia last week, made public some facts which show clearly how the consumers in the United States have to pay the railway freight bills.

On the first of this month the railways raised the freight rate on cement 5 cents a barrel. The price of that article was similarly advanced.

About 45,135,000 barrels of cement are used in America in a year. An additional cost of 5 cents a barrel means that the people of this country must expend $2,256,000 more annually for cement. This money goes to the railways.

Not every man has occasion to buy cement, but even if he lives in a rented house the owner of that property, when railway rates force up the price of building materials, must ultimately raise the rent.

This case of cement is typical of the method by which the American railways compel not only the shipper but the general public to pay the advance in the rates for moving freight.

Men Like Flattery

By Winifred Black

A DENVER woman who was suing her husband for divorce the other day had a beautiful time telling the judge how fickle her husband was.

"The last woman who flatters him has him," said the Denver woman. And the judge looked volumes of sympathy.

I wonder why.

If I had a husband who was as easily managed as that I wouldn't get a divorce from him while there was a breath of life left in my body.

"The last woman who flatters him has him."

Ah, indeed, my dear madam. Then, why didn't you see to it that you were the last woman every time?

I'd be the first woman and the middle-time woman and the last woman, and I would think of more sweet things to say than any other human being could ever dream of, and I'd say them every time I got a chance.

If my husband liked flattery I'd see to it that he got plenty of it, and got it right at home in his own dooryard.

A woman who is married to a man has nine points in the game in her favor all the time.

The man can't get away from her in the first place—she's got him right there under her thumb to experiment on; and the other woman who's trying to get him has to wait around corners and stand in windy hallways and compromise herself in a dozen ways to get an opportunity that the man's wife has made to order for her a dozen times a day.

I know a woman who was ill, and she went to a hospital. While she was there her husband's mother and her husband's sister did their very best to alienate the husband from his wife. When the wife first began to understand the situation she was very unhappy about it, but she was a sensible woman, so she didn't say a word.

She didn't sulk, and she didn't cry, and she didn't even hint a single mean thing about her amiable relatives-in-law.

She simply laid herself out to be agreeable to her husband.

She let him see how delighted she was when he came five minutes earlier, and how happy the very least little bit of attention from him made her.

She flattered him and made much of him until he was more in love with her than he was when he asked her to marry him, and when she went out of the hospital her mother-in-law and sister-in-law greeted her with strange, puzzled faces which were worth a dozen quarrels to her quite little consciousness of humble triumph.

Now, if that woman had been like the woman who got the divorce in Denver because her husband was easily flattered, she would have cried and made scenes every time her husband was a minute late at the hospital, and she would have played right into the hands of the people who were trying to make trouble for her.

As it is, she is the head of a happy, contented, prosperous and friendly family, and she has no one to thank for her own good fortune but her own good sense.

Flattery is a foolish little sugar cake to be sure, but there isn't a bit of harm in it, not a single bit, and the woman who won't flatter her own husband once in a while will find out to her cost that there are lots of other women in the world who are not so stiff-necked as she is.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

The World Is Growing Better, Thanks to the Systematic Efforts of Intelligent People

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

NEVER in the earth's history were there so many intelligent people working systematically for the betterment of humanity.

Remember that fact, while you read about the exposure of robbery and graft in high places; remember it while you hear of the oppression of the poor by the trusts and monopolies; remember it while you see the reports of the criminal courts in the daily press.

The world is not growing worse. It is growing better.

In olden times war was the most honorable profession open to man. It is not so considered to-day.

Wealth and power were formerly far more regardless of the condition of the masses than they are to-day; the Church was as merciless as the State in its treatment of suffering humanity; insanity was considered a crime and a disgrace; superstition classed the lunatic with demons, and the poor demented creatures were chained in dungeons, and starved and beaten to drive forth the devils.

Now science knows they are to be pitied and protected, and led back to sanity by scientific methods.

Prison Reform

ONCE the prisons were hells on earth of horrible cruelties.

Now they are, to an extent, reformatory institutions. Statistics tell us that 90 per cent. of the ex-convicts lead moral, law-observing lives.

Both institutions, those for the insane and those for the criminal, need improving. They are still far from ideal in the treatment of their inmates. Especially is this true for the charity institutions for the old, the sick and the insane.

In these places there is need of more attendants, and of attendants of a higher order of development. Better salaries and wages should be paid the nurses and watchers, and more sympathy and understanding of the mental laws should be demanded of those employed to care for the earth's unfortunates.

All these things will come in time; meanwhile we should rejoice that the world has advanced as far as it has in our time, and that we can aid so many good causes by personal interest.

All over our great republic societies exist where men and women work for the benefit of their kind. While the beef trusts and the insurance companies and the United States Senate are carrying on their shameful commerce millions of noble men and women are putting counteracting currents of unselfishness into vibration.

Helpful Organizations

NEVER were so many bright minds united in noble efforts for humanity as to-day. Charles Sprague Smith, in his marvellous Cooper Union work, with its many branches and tributaries, is doing miracles of good; the University Settlement, with its helpers and teachers, and many other settlements all over the country are increasing the wave currents of right thinking.

The "Ellvee" is another organization formed for the universal purpose.

The "Ellvee" is an organization of both sexes, working primarily for the betterment of economic conditions—incidentally, for mutual aid and culture, physically, mentally and spiritually.

What the "Ellvee" Wants

SIMPLE justice through the control and regulation of national finance, together with the utilization of the untold wealth dormant in the hands and brains of the unemployed and thus benefit the whole people.

The realization of these two conditions necessitates:

1. Government employment bureaus in all centres of population.
2. Public works for the unemployed.
3. A law making pauperization (indiscriminate giving) a crime.
4. Pensions for the physically disabled.
5. Public rental depots for agricultural machinery throughout the farming district.
6. Publicly owned public utilities.

Years following years steal something every day;
At length they steal us from ourselves away.—POPE.
